

CAEN OUTFLANKED ON ROAD TO PARIS

ORSHA SEIZED
IN GREAT RED
ARMY THRUST'FATHERLAND LINE' IS SHATTERED IN WHITE RUSSIA

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
London, Wednesday, June 28 (AP)—The mighty Soviet offensive swept forward through the German "fatherland line" in White Russia yesterday, capturing the railway junction of Orsha, entering the streets of Minsk, and liquidating five divisions of Nazis in a pocket southwest of Vitebsk, Moscow announced.

Twenty thousand German officers and men were left dead on the bloody battlefield of the encircled enemy grouping in the Vitebsk area, the broadcast Russian communiqué asserted.

Prisoners Total 10,000
Already battered far below their normal strength of 12,000 each, the German divisions fought desperately in a futile battle, Moscow said, and finally accepted an ultimatum to surrender. Preliminary reports showed 10,000 Germans had been taken prisoner in this action.

Even while announcing the liquidation of these units, identified by Moscow as the German Fourth, 17th, 206th and 246th infantry divisions and Sixth airborne division, the communiqué said five other Nazi infantry divisions had been encircled by Russian drives east and south of Bobruisk.

Altogether, nearly 1,500 places of varying size were recaptured during the day's advance against the German bulge in the center of the eastern front, it was announced.

Defenses Shattered
Thus the Red army was in the process of rapidly caving in the whole German defensive system in White Russia, the so-called "fatherland lines," on a stretch 200 miles long.

The early capture of Minsk, Lepel and Polotsk, last big German bases on Russian soil, was presaged by the speed and power of the Soviet advance.

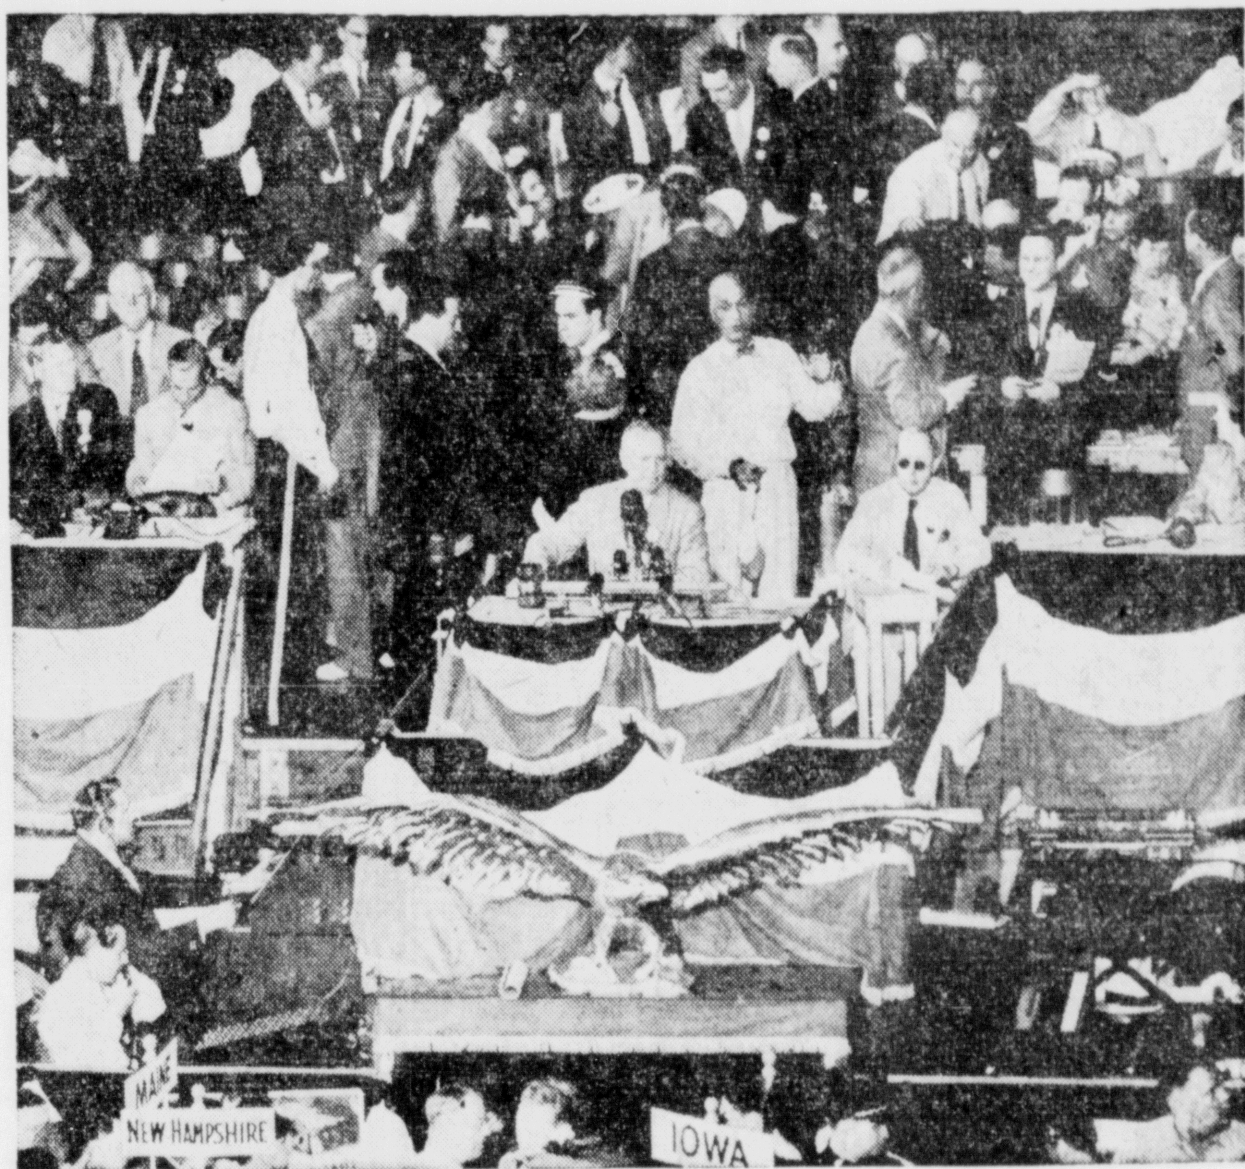

Late Soviet dispatches said Russian troops already were more than 40 miles west of Vitebsk and within 20 miles of Lepel, important center near the pre-war Polish border.

Meanwhile, the Soviet offensive against Finland increased in pitch, with more than one-quarter of the Leningrad-Murmansk railway liberated and Soviet shipping already reported using the Svir river, which lines Lakes Ladoga and Onegskoe (Onega).

Help Promised Finns
The Finns acknowledged Russian capture of Annuskenlinna, on the Annus isthmus, and said Soviet pressure was heavy all around Lake Ladoga, with violent battles raging in the Karelia isthmus north of Helsinki. A Russian breakthrough north of Kall also was admitted.

Despite these reverses, the Stockholm press said the Finnish government had "decided to continue the war and declare its solidarity with Germany," and the German radio announced that Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop had reached "complete agreement" in a conference at Helsinki today, committing Germany "to comply with

Huge Underground Nazi Stores Are Uncovered In Captured Fort du Roule

BY DON WHITEHEAD
Cherbourg, June 27 (AP)—An inspection today of Fort du Roule disclosed stores of ammunition and huge inventory of stores worth millions of dollars.

And all the mysteries of this fort, the Germans' strongest bastion guarding the southern approaches to Cherbourg, have not yet been solved by American troops, now swarming the underground chambers driven into a cliffside and reinforced by steel and concrete.

The deep tunnels held enough food, ammunition, guns and other supplies inside the deep tunnels to have kept a large force supplied for months. There are thousands of cases of cognac, fine French wines, champagnes and liquors, and vast stores of

ADULT SCHOOL
PLAN APPROVEDState Aid To Be Given
For Special Courses
Of Education

Lansing, June 27 (AP)—The adult education advisory committee today approved preliminary plans for the start of the state's experimental adult education program, which will be conducted in public schools and colleges throughout Michigan.

Among courses which the 15-man committee of educators, labor leaders, industrialists and representatives of farm organizations approved was one including labor's relationship to society, as a part of the "social-civic education" program in which instruction will be given, the committee decided, are foundational education, including high school courses and Americanization classes for foreign born, home and family education, vocational and cultural education, and vocational and occupational education.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the committee, said the whole program would be geared to "problems of practical nature not now covered by the schools."

He said schools and colleges qualifying under the program, for which the legislature appropriated $250,000 at its special session last February, would receive 75 per cent reimbursement for salary expenses and 100 per cent reimbursement for travel costs.

Toll Of Friday's

everything from shaving cream to torpedoes.

Officers have not yet located the passages leading to all the series of levels, and there is the possibility Germans may still be inside the fortress. But they made no move to destroy it before our troops broke in.

Cpl. James Bresnahan of Waterbury, Conn., led a group of us through one of the great series of chambers, 300 feet below the cliff top where the tanks first broke into the fortress. Thick steel doors were blasted open, and inside was an intricate, amazing installation.

The main tunnel was 200 yards deep, 38 feet high and equally as wide. Off the main tunnel were other rooms of the same height and width and about 50 yards in depth. An overhead crane was electrically powered for moving heavy weapons or ammunition from one part of the tunnels to others.

An electric light system was found, along with telephones, automatically controlled ventilators and water mains.

By lantern light we walked through the tunnels. They were littered with clothing and equipment of the fortress defenders.

Double-decked bunks ran along the sides of most of the tunnels where the men lived. Their personal belongings were strewn about in disarray. Some of the Germans had wrapped packages and addressed them to friends and relatives in Germany, but were caught before they could send them out. They contained pieces of silks and satins, cigars, tins of food and trinkets.

BOMBERS BLAST

Destroyed; Freighters
Sunk And Damaged

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Wednesday, June 28 (AP)—Warplanes from the southwest Pacific hit Yap Island in the Carolines with 35 tons of bombs and destroyed nine enemy airplanes in the newest sweep from this sector in support of the Salpian operations farther north.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers also sank a Japanese freighter and damaged three merchantmen off northwest New Guinea.

In coordinated strikes, New Guinea Island off Dutch New Guinea and nearby Manokwari on the New Guinea mainland were heavily bombed Monday.

Other bombers from the southwest Pacific sector hit Woleai and Palau in the Carolines. The Yap raid was the third upon that base within a week.

Wewak, in British New Guinea, and Rabaul on New Britain were heavily bombed Sunday.

GERMAN TROOPS
WAVER IN ITALYRuins Of Chiuri Taken;
Line Is Pushed 80
Miles Above Rome

BY GEORGE TUCKER
Rome, June 27 (AP)—British troops, striking hard at the core of German resistance some 80 miles above Rome, have captured the ruins of Chiuri in heavy fighting and tonight were slugging with infantry and tanks in the outskirts of Castiglione del Lago, nine miles northeast of Chiuri on the shore of Lake Trasimeno.

Lieutenant General Sir Oliver Leese's Eighth Army headquarters announced that heavy casualties were inflicted on the Nazis defending Chiuri, with more than 200 captured in the concluding stages of the battle. Although Leese's troops drove on to the edge of Castiglione del Lago, front dispatches said the Germans were strongly entrenched in the town and probably would have to be blasted out by artillery.

It was announced that the American First Armored Division, veterans of the Tunisian campaign and the successful onslaught on Rome, destroyed or captured 22 enemy tanks, 25 motor vehicles, 26 anti-tank guns, 12 field guns and killed an estimated 300 of the enemy in a three-day period last week.

Key Witness Heard
In Lansing Bribery
Conspiracy Hearing
Mason, Mich., June 28 (AP)—Raiph W. Smith, Niles finance and small loan company operator, took the witness stand today as one of the key prosecution witnesses in the circuit court trial of 22 defendants in a legislative graft conspiracy case.

Earlier, Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler, in presence of the jury, dramatically obtained endorsement of the name of a new witness on the information charging that five finance company officials and 17 members of the 1939 legislature had corrupted the enactment of laws through an exchange of bribes.

Sigler had Miss Jean Dorman, an employee of the National Discount Corporation, subpoenaed to give testimony to bridge a gap over which defense counsel had raised objection.

More Shoes Will Be Made For Children

Washington, June 27 (AP)—School children can expect more "saddle shoes" next season.

The war production board has lifted restrictions on the manufacture of two-toned shoes made with other than leather soles, effective September 1.

Effective immediately "shearling slippers"—the soft bedroom type—"may be manufactured in any color provided no other leather is used," WPB said, and added that relaxation of the use of white cattle hide leather should "provide more suitable material for infants and children's shoes."

WILLKIE GETS
HAILS DEWEYVICE PRESIDENTIAL OFFER REJECTED
BY GOV. WARREN

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Chicago, Stadium, June 27 (AP)—The Republican convention accepted tonight a platform which snubbed the ideas of its 1940 standard bearer, Wendell Willkie, and then heard its last president, Herbert Hoover, declare that only a change in the White House can freedom be assured.

Hoover walked out onto the peninsula of the speaker's stand to assail the new deal and Franklin D. Roosevelt as having resorted to "personal power diplomacy."

Decision Final
A few minutes before Hoover began his address, Governor Earl Warren of California declared firmly that he "could not accept a nomination" for vice president on the 1944 ticket.

Warren said his statement was as final "as I know how to make it."

But on the convention floor, many delegates awaited to learn the preferences of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, for a running mate.

Dewey, with more than the necessary votes in his pocket, may arrive in Chicago tomorrow. Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut's blond politico-playwright, followed Hoover on tonight's convention program. She declared that the incumbent administration might have averted war by "skillful and determined American statesmanship."

Stiff Collars Wilt
In a characteristic blue serge suit and a stiff collar which soon wilted in the ninety-degree temperature of the cauldron-like convention hall, Hoover spoke in clipped sentences. The delegates had trouble hearing him, and microphones were shifted several times.

Hoover agreed with the Republican platform framers that there must be some world organization to preserve peace—not "a mere debating society." It should be split into three divisions, he said.

Argentina Envoy
Is Ordered Home

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Ambassador Norman Armour has been ordered home from Argentina "for consultation," the state department announced today.

A department official said it should be considered only logical that Armour would be recalled at this time when the whole course of Argentine relations is under discussion with other American governments.

Nonetheless, Armour's recall was regarded here as a deterioration of U. S.-Argentine diplomacy. The United States has not recognized the Argentine regime since Gen. Edelmiro Farrell seized power at the head of a militarist junta on February 25.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, (by wireless)—Sniping, as far as I know, is recognized as a legitimate means of warfare. And yet there is something sneaking about it that outrages the American sense of fairness.

I had never sensed this before we landed in France, and began pushing the Germans back. We have had snipers before—in Bizerte and Cassino and lots of other places. But always on a small scale.

Here in Normandy the Germans have gone in for sniping in a wholesale manner. There are snipers everywhere. There are snipers in trees, in buildings, in piles of wreckage, in the grass.

Every mile we advance there are dozens of snipers left behind us. They pick off our soldiers one by one as they walk down the roads or across the fields.

It isn't safe to move into a new bivouac area until the snipers have been cleaned out. The first bivouac I moved into had shots ringing through it for a full day before all the hidden gunmen were rounded up. It gives you the same spooky feeling that you get on moving into a place you suspect of being swarmed with mines.

Bitter Fight Rages
For Saipan Island,
Marianas Key Base

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, June 27 (AP)—A bitter struggle raged today for Saipan, key to the Marianas islands, and its capital of Garapan with heightened Japanese resistance indicating an all-out infantry battle may be at hand.

Frontline dispatches pictured desperate street fighting in Garapan. American marines and infantry held the southern outskirts of the town, which had a peacetime population of 10,000.

Patrols cautiously probing inland to the city met the fire of Japanese snipers and machinegunners. Every house and cellar was the hideout for enemy soldiers.

MERCURY HITS
100 AT CHICAGOCooler Stretch Ahead
For Republicans At
Stewing Stadium

Chicago, June 27 (AP)—The temperature soared to 100 degrees at 5 p. m. today giving GOP national conventioners Chicago's hottest weather of the year and indirectly attributing to the death of a delegate, Charles C. Wilson, 57, of Meade, Kans.

Wilson died after a heart attack in the sweltering Chicago Stadium and J. J. Ryan, a police captain, was in a serious condition tonight after a similar attack. The city's hottest weather last year was 97, recorded a year ago today. The all-time high for June 27 was 100.1 in 1932.

With the temperature at 100 degrees, and stretched beyond that occasionally by the Kleig lights, only 250 delegates were present in the stadium at 5 p. m., with less than 500 spectators in the galleries.

Forecaster H. S. Kenny said freshening winds would be followed by thundershowers tonight and predicted "much less humidity," with a high of 85 to 88 for tomorrow.

War Wounded Get
Train Priorities

Washington, June 27 (AP)—New regulations empowering the railroads to "dump" civilian passengers went into effect today as a government spokesman disclosed that plans are ready to handle a possible ten-fold increase in the movement of war casualties to hospitals.

The new ODT order gives the railroads full legal authority to cancel reservations, space and tickets when necessary to make room for casualties. It authorizes the railroads to make passengers vacate berths or other space already assigned, to forbid any and invalid troops and their attendants to board trains, and even to cancel regular intercity train schedules when the trains are needed for casualties.

SOLDIERS COME HOME

London, June 27 (AP)—Within the next few days, 400 American soldiers, their duty to their country done in the western invasion, will be going home by airplane. Some of them were wounded as recently as four or five days ago in Normandy.

OPA Suspends Gas
Station Six Months

Grand Rapids, June 27 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today imposed a six months suspension order—longest of its type in the history of the Grand Rapids district office—on Mitchell Star, Battle Creek gas station proprietor.

Star was accused of irregularities in receiving loose coupons, counterfeit coupons, invalid coupons and failure to maintain proper records.

Other firms and individuals penalized from Battle Creek include W. B. Barbour and H. F. Steve, service station operators, 60-day suspension; O. B. Hampton, Van Buren Auto Sales company, 60-day suspension.

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Representatives of 42 air lines appeared before the civil aeronautics board at a pre-hearing today on applications for new north central air routes.

Most of the proposed routes cover stops in Wisconsin, Minnesota and northern Michigan with a few applications extending over territory as far west as Denver, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

AXIS LOSSES
IN NORMANDY
OVER 70,000HIGHWAYS CUT OFF
IN QUICK ATTACK
BY BRITISH

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Wednesday, June 28 (AP)—British troops striking out quickly on the eastern Normandy front after the fall of Cherbourg which boosted Axis losses to at least 70,000 men since today, yesterday outflanked the German stronghold of Caen on the road to Paris.

Late front dispatches said the British had reached the Odon river at a point five miles southwest of Caen after cutting the trunk highway and railway linking Caen with Villers-Bocage, and Avranches at the base of the Normandy peninsula.

Tank Showdown Near

The British in two days had advanced more than seven miles from positions around Tilly-sur-Seuil, captured 10 or more villages, overrun numerous enemy gun emplacements and now were on the verge of breaking into open country ideal for a showdown with German tank formations.

A dispatch from Associated press front correspondent Roger D. Greene said the British reached the Odon at 4 p. m., and quoted a British officer as saying that the Germans evidently were short of infantrymen to hold the ground in the area, although the enemy still packed terrific vallop with his tanks.

Between 12 and 15 German tanks were destroyed during the day, and the British were cleaning up enemy remnants in Colleville, Tourville, and probably in nearby Mouten, five miles southwest of Caen, he said. The British also were fighting in the village of Gratinville.

Port Repairs Rushed

Other British units were reported within three miles of Caen on the west.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British units sprang into action even as thousands of German troops were filing into American prison cages at Cherbourg and Allied repair experts were hurrying to make the prize port a springboard for huge reinforcements and supplies as the invasion went into its fourth week.

Twenty thousand Germans have been captured in the cleanup of the Cherbourg peninsula, the Allied communiqué said, "and more are being brought in."

The total Axis prisoner bag thus far is at least 32,000, and probably will exceed that figure when the final Cherbourg count is tallied. The 29,000 prisoners taken included those in Cherbourg and others captured in the advance on the port from the Barneville-St. Sauveur - Montebourg sectors.

Railway Track Held

The fall of Cherbourg late Monday night gave the Allies the port and railroad for the double-track railway leading to Paris. A 75-mile section of the track now is in Allied hands, extending from Cherbourg through Carantec and Bayeux to a point only a few "hinges" of the German eastern positions.

We are continuing our attacks against the last remnants of organized opposition by elements of the enemy's forces holding out in Maupertus airfield, east of Cherbourg.

WAR PRISONERS FLEE AU TRAIN

State Police Spread
Net For Three
Germans

Officers of the Gladstone State Police post were out last night joining a peninsula wide hunt for three German prisoners of war who were reported escaped from Camp Au Train at 5 p. m. Tuesday. Sheriff's departments and city police of the peninsula were notified.

The escapees are Klaus Born, 26; Franz Schreck, 20 and Adam Wagner 19.

Born was described as being five feet, seven inches tall, 155 pounds, has blue eyes, brown straight hair and of fair complexion. He bears a scar on his right lower leg.

Schreck is also five feet, seven inches tall. He weighs 152 pounds, has grey eyes, brown hair and a ruddy complexion; is bald and has a long neck.

Wagner is five feet, ten inches tall and weighs 132 pounds. He has blue eyes, blond wavy hair and a scar on the little finger of the right hand.

All three prisoners were wearing blue denim work clothes marked with the usual "P W" of prisoner of war garb, when last seen at their work near Rumley.

Work camp officials at first believed the prisoners might have been lost in the woods where they were working, but when they did not report at 5 p. m. the FBI said they had escaped. The FBI and conservation officers are aiding in the search.

Householders Urged To Buy Coal Early

In urging the nation's householders to obtain an initial supply of coal during the summer months to minimize delay in deliveries when cold weather sets in, the Office of Defense Transportation yesterday explained that coal purchases must be limited to amounts permitted under regulations of the Solid Fuels Administration for War.

The ODT pointed out that the shortage of motor trucks and drivers available for coal distribution is expected to become critical this fall and urged householders to space coal orders throughout the summer to assure an adequate supply when winter comes.

Many trucks engaged in coal delivery are over age and in need of extensive repairs; drivers have entered the armed services or other war industries in great numbers, and prompt delivery of coal will be impossible if orders are not placed until the arrival of cold weather, the ODT explained.

Today Is Deadline For Registration

Today is the deadline for Delta county persons to register for work picking cherries in the Traverse City and Sturgeon Bay orchard areas. The registrations are being taken by Bradford Loveland at the office of the county agricultural agent in the court house.

A bumper crop of cherries is anticipated in the Michigan and Wisconsin orchards. The quota of workers needed from Delta county to assist in picking the fruit is 75—fifty for the Sturgeon Bay area and 25 for Traverse City.

Yesterday noon it was reported that 15 persons had registered, most of them for work at Sturgeon Bay.

bourg, and in the northwest tip of the peninsula, the communiqué said.

The American capture of valuable Cherbourg and the rapid British attack which gave the Germans no rest came almost four years to the day after Hitler had announced that "the war in the west is finished."

Canadian artillery and the big guns of Allied warships aided the push toward Caen and the flanking movement below it. An Allied spokesman said the Allies were "infinitely" better than the Germans in artillery, and predicted a savage Allied aerial onslaught on the enemy should he try to mount a big counterattack.

Old Glory Hoisted

German broadcasts betrayed fears of new Allied "leap frog landings" along the French coast now that Cherbourg has been eliminated along with the big coastal guns the Germans had been manning around it.

Cherbourg fell to the American Seventh Corps under Maj. Gen. Joseph L. (Lightning) Collins, who commanded American troops at Guadalcanal. The corps comprises the Fourth, Ninth and 79th Divisions, it was disclosed by Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who hailed the seizure as "a magnificent job."

With the Stars and Stripes fluttering beside the French tricolor over France's third largest port, labor battalions already were sweeping the debris from the streets and minesweepers were clearing the harbor for Allied convoys to come with mountains of supplies and thousands of fresh troops.

Lt. Gen. Carl Wilhelm Von Schlieben, Nazi garrison commander, and Rear Admiral Henneke, German naval commander in Normandy, were the prize captives in Cherbourg, where Collins' men crushed the remnants of four German divisions and a naval complement. With 800 men, they came out of an underground fortress and surrendered Monday night. Their collapse gave General Collins' troops a total of 20,000 men since the American breakthrough to the west coast and the wheeling movement which toppled Cherbourg. The prisoner total still is not complete.

Great stockpiles of equipment worth millions of dollars were seized at Cherbourg. Hundreds of items from shaving cream to fine brandies and armaments were discovered in the underground maze comprising Fort Du Roule alone.

one each for Europe, Asia and the western hemisphere.

But in this country, Hoover declared, a decision must be made now between conflicting philosophies of government.

"We cannot be without a peace program as we were without a preparedness program," he said. "We owe it to our fighting men that they find no delays in productive jobs."

"Only by a change in administration will these gigantic problems be solved in a climate of freedom."

Bricker Chances Good

Warren had spurned the idea of a second place draft in a letter to the Oregon delegation. The far westerners had joined the Pennsylvania representatives at the convention in asking him to accept it.

Warren merely was saying no more, as he had done many times since he came to Chicago, that he had commitments to carry out in California that would preclude his taking a spot on the national ticket.

Some suggestions were heard on the convention floor that maybe Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, might be persuaded to take the vice-presidential nomination, even though Bricker backers flatly said his name would be put in nomination for the presidency.

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan told a reporter he thought Bricker probably could have the vice-presidential honor if he'd take it.

Both Ferguson and Senator Warren Austin of Vermont, said Bricker appeared to have a stronger chance than anyone else, with Warren out of the running.

Policies Definite

Warren's decision was announced soon after the convention, swiftly ratifying a platform on which it hopes to regain the presidency, delivered a snub to Wendell L. Willkie which may assume significant proportions.

On the foreign policy, Republicans declare for a "post-war cooperative organization among sovereign nations to prevent military aggression and to attain permanent peace with organized justice in a free world." The party proposes that "peace forces" be used to "prevent or repel military aggression."

"We pledge prosecution of the war to total victory . . . the platform says."

"We declare our relentless aim to win the war against all our enemies: (1) For our own American security and welfare; (2) To make and keep the Axis powers impotent to renew tyranny and attack; (3) For the attainment of peace and freedom based on justice and security."

Willkie, the dark horse Republican candidate of four years ago, had assailed the plank as an ineffective means of stamping out aggression. Fifteen Republican governors had called it too involved.

But only Willkie knew whether adoption of the plank over his objection would mean he might bolt his adopted party and thereby possibly weaken its chances to climb back to the political pinnacles.

FOR FREE AMERICA

Chicago, June 27. (AP)—Salient statements from the Republican platform:

"We declare our relentless aim to win the war against all our enemies."

"We shall seek to achieve such (peace) aims through organized international cooperation and not by joining a world state."

"We shall take government out of competition with private industry and terminate rationing, price fixing and other emergency powers. We shall promote the fullest stable employment through private enterprise."

"Our goal is to prevent hardship and poverty in America."

"The Republican party accepts the purposes of the national labor relations act, the wage and hour act, the social security act and all other federal statutes designed to promote and protect the welfare of American working men and women, and we promise a fair and just administration of these laws."

"Governmental (farm) policies must be practical and efficient with freedom from regimentation by an impractical Washington bureaucracy in order to assure independence of operation and bountiful production, fair and equitable market prices for farm products and a sound program for conservation . . . of our soil . . ."

"As soon as the war ends the present rates of taxation on individual incomes, on corporations, and on consumption should be reduced . . . We shall exercise the most rigid economy."

"We will establish and maintain a fair protective tariff on competitive products . . ."

"We favor an amendment to the constitution providing that no person shall be president of the United States for more than two terms of four years each."

"It is imperative to the maintenance of a free America that the press and radio be free and that full and complete information be available to Americans."

"All channels of news must be kept open with equality of access to information at the source."

Although Wounded Youth Makes Escape From Nazis Captors

How he blasted his German captors with a hand grenade which he had concealed in his clothes and although wounded was successful in a desperate effort to escape is told by Stanton Abrahamson Jr. in a letter to his wife, Mrs. Jeanne Abrahamson, city.

"Wounded, captured and escaped, when!" was a note he penned on the second page of the letter. Abrahamson was wounded on June 7.

The major part of the missive follows:

"Now, it finally can be told. I guess I better start from the beginning. As you probably already know I was wounded in France. Have since been evacuated to England and am in a hospital here. Here are the circumstances on my getting wounded."

"Was among the first 500 to 1,000 men to land in France. Everything went well the first and second days, then while protecting our right flank the Jerries surrounded our machine gun and killed everyone but me and another fellow. They machine-gunned us and bayoneted a couple; then they threw a hand grenade which wounded me. It knocked me unconscious. When I awoke a German was kicking me and they made us go with them. They took everything off from us but one hand grenade which I had hidden in my clothes."

"All this time I was bleeding like a 'stuck pig.' I knew the game was up so I asked this pal of mine if he wanted to take a chance. He said yes, so I took the grenade out and tossed it at them. Killed six or seven. We then ran down a small ravine. They shot off my helmet, came so close in burned my hair. Finally got back to our own lines, then I passed out from loss of blood. Next think I remember was getting blood plasma on the beach and finally after a couple days arrived in England."

"A couple of days ago they operated and took out of my eye a piece of shrapnel, took some out of my hand too. Feeling quite well, can see pretty good now. The Doc said a fraction of an inch more and I would have lost my right eye."

"To say that I am lucky is not quite the right word, guess I just can't find any. But all this time it has been you I have been thinking of and only wish you could be here to help me get well."

"Enclosed is a picture of a German soldier who is now dead. I took it off from him after I killed him. Also a five franc invasion money which we were given before evacuating France."

"Please don't worry as I am well. Was told yesterday we would receive the Order of the Purple Heart."

After the shattered cities of southern Italy, Rome is breathtakingly beautiful in all its untouched magnificence. Its people are clean, its women attractive and well dressed, its men comparatively well fed and healthy looking.

But there is another side of Rome—the well to do Roman many of them English speaking people, many of them expatriates from Allied lands still others well educated Italian linguists. There is something not so beautiful about the plaintive song they all started to sing even before they had finished hailing the doughboys as their liberators. "You have been so long," sighed the beautiful, smartly dressed woman in the bar. "Waiting has been an ordeal—more than you can imagine. We have expected you since September."

Yes, lady the lads have been delayed. There was a short delay at Salerno. You may have heard of Salerno—a lot of folks back home have; they were told in little telegrams.

"You will never know what we have been through," said the restaurant keeper, spreading his hands. "All through the winter we kept wondering if you were ever coming and those German dogs—pffft!—they were in our way everywhere."

Yes it was that way. In the dead of winter some of the boys wondered, too, if they would ever get to Rome and some of them aren't here today. And those German dogs—yes, they were in our way everywhere, too.

"It's been terrible," the lady said, looking disdainfully at her beautiful dress. "See this? We have nothing to wear, nothing at all."

Have you noticed the soldiers watching you? They didn't know such clothes still existed in this world. One of them said this morning that Roman women seemed to be even better dressed in many cases than women back home. Don't say that so loud, lady—the clothes these guys have on they've worn all winter, too.

"It's been so crowded in Rome all winter, double the normal population. We could hardly move around," sighed the banker. "And the food was terrible; very little bread, no beer for months and months, only a little American whiskey left, and the price of everything—ah, the price of everything!"

Yes, it was crowded in the foxholes on Mount Lungo, too, and Cassino was overpopulated—with the dead. You could not move around at all there. Bread? Beer? Whiskey? Oh, yes, some of the boys remember those things. They had a little beer at Anzio. And the price of everything—yes, the price of everything.

"Give me one cigaret," pleaded the matron in the well tailored suit. "Even the black market has had only a few American cigarets lately. It's been terrible."

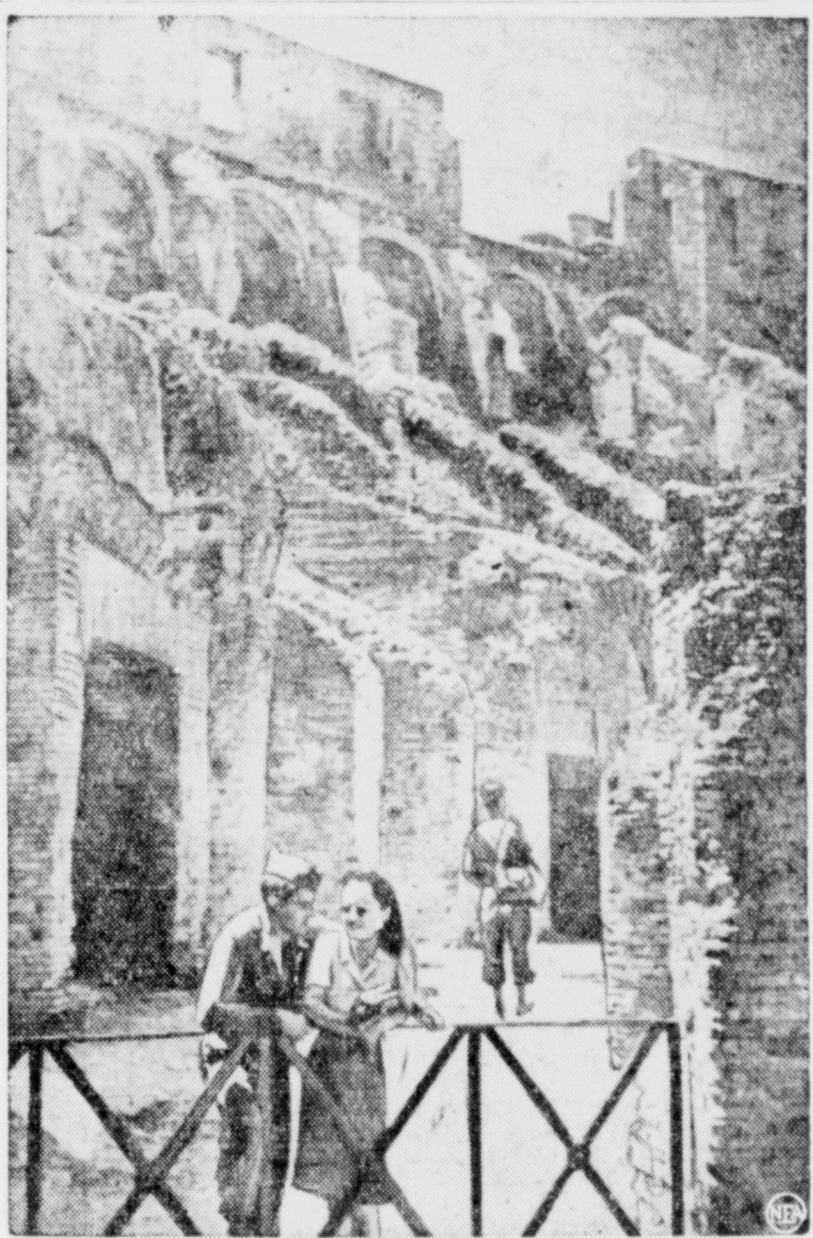

"Give me a package of coffee," smiled the sleek young man in his twenties. "We haven't had coffee in two months."

"How soon will there be gasoline?" asked the taxi driver. "It's been almost impossible to get gasoline. It's been terrible."

Yes, yes, yes. It's been terrible. Here's a cigaret—coffee—tomorrow gasoline—yes, it's been terrible, this waiting. But don't say it again. The boys who lie forever along the road to Rome might hear you.

"Great God!" said the soldier sitting slumped on the curb, resting his burning feet. Amusement was written all over his dirty, bearded face. "Great God! The war has never touched some of them here, has it?"

Then he got up, shouldered his gun and pack again, and started slowly on through the town on beyond Rome.

STORY'S OLDER THAN THE SETTING.—The ruins of Rome's ancient Colosseum look down upon a scene old than they are—a guy and a gal engrossed in nothing in the world but themselves. While the Yank and his friend in foreground seem unimpressed by the remains of the grandeur that was Rome, the G. I. in background seems to find it quite interesting. (NEA Photo.)

Giant Cliff Thompson Will Get Law Degree

Milwaukee—Always a showman, Clifford M. Thompson the Wisconsin giant who will be graduated from the Marquette university law school June 30, takes with good humor the quips of his three classmates who predict he will snatch clients from the streets and intimidate juries with his size. Thompson—all 8 feet 7 inches of him—entered the law school two years ago to fit himself to a settled down life.

"Everything I've done so far has meant constant travel. I'd like to earn my living in one spot, so that I can have a home my size and furniture and doorways in it my size," Thompson said Thursday.

APPEARED HERE
Clifford M. Thompson, Waupaca tall man, was an attraction at the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree a few years ago.

day when preparing for his last two examinations. "I'm looking forward to graduation and to appearing before the state supreme court July 1 to be admitted to the bar. Then I hope to practice in a Milwaukee law office a while before going up to my home in Waupaca to open an office of my own. More than likely, I'll make personal appearances now and then, for I've always liked the show business. I've always liked everything I've done."

Years of Travel
Thompson started life in a big way at Scandinavia in Waupaca county, 40 years ago, weighing 12 pounds at birth. He has made capital of his size since he reached 6 feet 6 inches at the age of 16. He continued to grow while playing basketball for Stevens Point State Teachers college and after his graduation until he was 27. With circuses and as an advertising promotion man for Milwaukee brewery he traveled 12 years, visiting every state in the United States many times, most of Canada and Mexico, London and the Hawaiian Islands. When he called on some of his tanbark friends at the time the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey circus played in Milwaukee last summer, their giant had to look up at Cliff. Of course he asked, "How's the weather up there?"

Thompson's nearest rival in size in this country, at least, is Jack Earl of El Paso, the Texas giant, who measures 8 feet 6 1/2 inches. The genial Wisconsin man never becomes annoyed with "average sized individuals," their unrestrained stares and their repetitious questions, for their curiosity has been responsible for his success in the show business. When playing night clubs he never had to bother with a patter or with stunting. He said:

"I just tell the people how tall I am, recite my weight (450 pounds), collar size (19 1/2), shoe size (22) and show them that a half dollar passes through my ring and they're impressed. An average sized individual stands up with me. I try on his hat and it stands up on top of my hair like a peanut. He tries on mine and it falls down over his nose. That's all there is to it."

Special Chairs in Class
His size was no problem in the law school (after Dean Francis Swietlik had special chairs installed for him in each classroom for the doorways in the law building are tall enough to admit the giant without stooping and the third floor, high ceilinged library, built on manorial lines, is better proportioned to him than to his classmates. Cliff could scan the titles of the top shelf books at eye level and sometimes saved the smaller people the need of using a ladder by handing the top books down to them.

The smallest of his classmates, and his most usual companion, is Jimmy D'Amato, Waukesha, who measures a scant 5 feet 1 inch. The only others to receive law degrees this semester will be Jane O'Melia, 520 N. 33rd st., formerly of Rhinelander, Wis., and Robert Schoen, 3464 N. 17th st. Miss O'Melia is the first student in five years to be granted the doctor of jurisprudence degree.

Thompson's fraternity brothers realized at the time of initiation that they couldn't inflict much punishment on the superman becoming a new member. In fact, they were red of face over their insistence that he come prepared to do his tall man act, for when he arrived at the clubroom engaged for the rite, the ceiling was too low to allow him to stand up straight.

Ceilings Too Low
"That's the trouble with most new buildings," Thompson lamented. "Only the old-fashioned ones have ceilings high enough for me. But in the old barrooms and restaurants there's another problem—those old style ceiling fans. I'm scared to death of them."

It was Thompson's wife, the former Mary Bars of Milwaukee (whose height reaches a mere 5 feet 5 inches) who inspired him to study law. They met in the summer of 1933, when both were performing for the Cole Brothers circus, and were married soon afterward. His wife accompanied him on his travels in the next four years while Thompson represented the Blatz Brewing Co.

Getting back into a bookish atmosphere as a law student was difficult, Thompson admitted, and less adventuresome than his 12 years of travel, but hardly less interesting. "I know that my studies have just begun," he said seriously. "I hope to use my knowledge of law to aid ordinary average people who have had fewer opportunities than I, not only to adjust their difficulties with the law but rather to stay out of such difficulties."

Because of owning a farm at Scandinavia, he has maintained contacts with Waupaca county people since his boyhood, friendships that will help him establish his practice and to settle down in that postwar giant sized home he dreams about. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Thompson, have moved from Scandinavia into Waupaca.

There will be no circus barker to introduce him, but when he walks across the rostrum to receive his law diploma, Thompson wearing a specially made cap and gown, will obviously be accepted as the world's biggest lawyer.

MRS. VENNEMA HONORED
Iron Mountain—Employees of the Green Bay district of the Western Union Telegraph company honored Mrs. Katherine Vennema of this city, who retired June 15 after 44 years of service, at a dinner Saturday evening at the Beaumont hotel in Green Bay.

Dinner was served to 40 guests at 7 o'clock at tables appointed with early summer flowers. W. W. Whitmore of Green Bay, district manager of the company, presided and paid tribute to Mrs. Vennema's long and efficient service. A program of vocal and accordion music followed the dinner and the group presented Mrs. Vennema with a war bond.

VALUATIONS REJECTED
Marquette—Concurring in a recommendation of Frank L. Denney, county accountant, that it would be unwise to reduce valuations on non-mining property, particularly because it would reduce the amount of money given to city and township schools by county tax allocation officials, the county board of supervisors, at its annual equalization meeting yesterday, voted 29 to 5 not to accept a reduction of $389,650, made by the Ishpeming board of review (a cut of 10 per cent) and a reduction of $100,000 made by the Negaunee board, a cut of five per cent. The Ishpeming board of review reported an assessed valuation for that city of $11,493,370. The board of supervisors added $389,650 to make the equalized figure $11,883,020, compared to $11,761,795 in 1943, an increase of $121,225.

CLAIM SMOKE NUISANCE
Marquette—In a report submitted to the city commission last night regarding the complaint of Mrs. Elizabeth Laux about the "smoke nuisance" and open ditch sewer at the Cliffs Dow Chemical company plant, Stephen L. Garber, city manager, said an agreement has been reached with R. W. Jenner, manager of the company, to eliminate the smoke trouble and he reported there is no serious menace to health from the open ditch.

The conditions were investigated by Mr. Garber, Dr. C. P. Drury, health officer, and R. W. Bystrom, fire chief.

ROY DERHAM ELECTED
Iron Mountain—Roy Derham, Dickinson county probate judge and candidate for renomination on the non-partisan ticket, was named secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Association of Probate Judges at the meeting held June 21, 22 and 23 in Manistee, Mich.

DOCTORS SUE POST
Sault Ste. Marie—Each of six Sault Ste. Marie physicians and surgeons are asking $100,000 in federal court from the Curtis Publishing company, a Delaware corporation, instead of just three as announced in an Associated Press dispatch from Detroit Saturday, said Henry A. Montgomery, Detroit attorney, representing the local physicians.

The doctors who are bringing the $600,000 suit are Dr. George A. Conrad, Dr. Benjamin T. Montgomery, Dr. Lyman McBryde, Dr. Clayton Willison, Dr. H. M. Harrington and Dr. I. V. Yale.

The suits arise out of the publication of an article entitled "Not Enough Doctors," written by Henry F. Pingle in the September, 1943, issue of the Ladies Home Journal—an article which the doctors claim was "false, scandalous, malicious, defamatory, slanderous and libelous."

Each doctor claims that "as the result of the publication of the aforesaid false, scandalous, malicious, defamatory and libelous words * * * complainant has sustained pecuniary damage in his profession as a physician and surgeon and has lost large sums of money which he otherwise would have earned."

The thermal belt of Polk County, N. C., is said to have the greatest variety of plant life of any section in the United States.

In 1871, Canada's rural inhabitants outnumbered the urban dwellers by more than two million.

The Facts Are Coming Out

THE sordid details of the almost open manner in which finance companies operating in Michigan, corrupted leading members of the 1939 session of the state legislature, are being revealed in the graft trial now in progress. In addition to money payments to many legislators, the loan companies financed a wholesale outing for all of the members of the state's two legislative bodies, when the senators and representatives were guests at a ball game dinner and floor show, in Detroit. Apparently there was no great secrecy about the Gargantuan affair—everyone knew who was footing the bills for that orgy of wine, women and song and there could have been little doubt in the mind of the legislators that they would have to settle with their hosts—which they, apparently, did when voting time came.

The testimony also reveals that patrons of small loan companies, as the result of the skulduggery that marked the session, were made the victim of an internal battle between the loan companies themselves. One of the larger companies operating in Michigan, favored a sharp reduction in loan rates, while the smaller companies held that such rates would be ruinous to their business. So citizens of Michigan, forced through financial stress to borrow funds from these agencies, were caught between the millstones of these conflicting interests. And in the end, of course, these borrowers furnished the funds for corrupting legislators and providing for their entertainment at extravagant sprees, without knowing anything about it.

Apparently there were a lot of soundly founded reasons for the probe that has been made into the proceedings of that 1939 session of the state legislature.

Cherbourg Falls

CHERBOURG has fallen, and thereby the Allies have gained control of the important French port, which will be used to good advantage in pouring in vast quantities of supplies to the invasion forces.

That Cherbourg was captured only three weeks after the expeditionary forces landed on the beaches of Normandy gives a good idea of the military force the Allies were able to amass for the invasion. The progress has been much more rapid in Normandy than the fighting at Cassino and before the fall of Rome, but from now on the tempo is certain to be stepped up on all fronts.

The headway the Allies are now making in the war to defeat Axis aggression is being done through the combined efforts of the Allies—the Americans, British, Russians, French, Norwegians and others, who have preferred to fight and die for freedom rather than submit to the enemy. They are fighting a common cause, and each is doing everything possible in the range of his ability and resources.

Henry VIII's Birthday

HENRY VIII, King of England from 1509 to 1547, was born at Greenwich June 28, 1491, the year before Columbus discovered America. He was the second son of Henry VII and Elizabeth of York. A few weeks before he became king he married Catherine of Aragon, widow of his elder brother Arthur, and he lived happily with her for many years.

Henry was a man of learning, a good linguist, handsome, accomplished in many ways, and fond of sport. Much of his time during the first half of his reign was spent in foreign expeditions and wars. In Cardinal Wolsey he had an exceptional minister of state. Wolsey died in 1530, just in time to prevent the losing of his head. Chopping heads off was the favorite sport of kings in those days.

The story of Henry's six wives is known to every schoolboy. Those who died a natural death were fortunate. Anne Boleyn and Catherine Howard went to the block, as did many other former friends. Henry loved to see the blood run, and he murdered many a high-born Englishman. The rank and file of the British people liked him and called him "Bluff King Hal." He was really as fine an old desperado as ever scuttled ship or cut a throat.

Henry was bound to have his way, regardless of religion or morals. If you are a creedalist, Henry can never appeal to you; if you are a pragmatist, you can see where he accomplished much good to mankind. Despotism, greedy of power and devoid of moral sense, it may be said of Henry VIII that he had a passion for efficiency and the greatness of England.

A Fine Gesture

EMPLOYEES of the Evinrude Motors division plant at Milwaukee went on a "spontaneous walkout" last May 18, an action which officials of Local 1302 of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) said was unauthorized.

This week, officials of the local announced that it had voted on July 4 to make up the day lost. The Evinrude plant is engaged in making vital war materials for the United States Navy, which had asked the firm to maintain full operations during the holiday.

In according to the Navy's request, the CIO union is setting a good example to organized labor throughout the land. In fact, it is also enhancing the prestige of unionism, which in the past has been subject to much public criticism because of the stoppage of war production in these critical times.

Long-Time Need Seen

ENDING of the German phase of World War II will not result in appreciable decrease in the demand for hardwood lumber for months thereafter, according to John W. McClure, secretary-treasurer of the National Hardwood Lumber association.

Mr. McClure points out that any decline in the needs for the European front will be offset by those of an expanding offensive in the Pacific.

Fifty per cent of the lumber produced is now being used for the packaging of war goods and dunnage. In addition to the demands for crating and similar purposes, the government program of building hardwood truck bodies is going ahead full tilt.

Release of lumber for residential building in this country, consequently, will have to await the time when the military leaders feel that this can be done without impairing the war effort. There is a pent-up demand for about a million new homes in America, according to a recent survey. Quite likely, the lumber situation will be tight until close to the end of the war, but when it is eased the building industry's boom will come at the right time to provide jobs for many former service men and war plant workers.

HELP BUT NO CONTROL? (Milwaukee Journal)

Now comes the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., quoting W. DuB. Brookings of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as follows:

"By the recent passage of a measure authorizing greatly increased funds for (forest) fire prevention, congress has gone a long way toward removing what is recognized as the greatest deterrent to the progress of private forestry."

The Brookings article then says: "There are some who advocate complete federal control of forest practices covering growing and cutting of all privately controlled timberlands. This would take an enormous area out of the free, competitive field."

It obviously wouldn't and needn't. Anyway, fire protection or prevention undoubtedly is a public function. When conducted jointly by the federal and state governments and private forest owners—as proposed in the recently approved measure—it also is a collective function.

What about "sustained yield"—a program of forest management designed to keep trees growing and producing timber, pulpwood, or something else. Are there not factors here "clothed with a public interest"?

If it is the function of government to prevent fires, produce young trees, employ biologists to fight tree diseases on private properties, make a nation-wide program, make a nation-wide survey of tree growth on both private and public lands—if all these are public functions, then should there not be some control of harvesting?

If government is to make large public contributions to private forestry, government is then justified in insisting that private forest owners co-operate by submitting to reasonable supervision.

From L. D. F., Birmingham: I did a favor for professor Fawcraze. He acknowledged the favor by sending me a card on which was written the single word "Phthignkhee." What kind of lingo is that?—S. M.

Answer: "Phthignkhee" is pronounced "thanks"—phth as in phthisis; -k as in meringue; gn as in gnostic; kh as in khaki; nd as in in fleece.

From G. W. B., Lynn: Ridiculous! You say that there is no "cue" in coupon. And you cite Merriam-Webster's. Well, everyone says "cue-pon," therefore the Merriam company is wrong. Now what do you say?

Answer: Poor Merriam! From Captain A. O. Loughmiller, USMCR, San Diego: Recently you wondered how Dime Box, Texas, got its name. In the early days when freight for that section was hauled from San Antonio, and before the days of near-by post offices, people who wanted letters posted in San Antonio would place their letters plus a dime for each one in a box alongside the road so that freight haulers would perform this service for the stipulated price of a dime a letter. When a post office was established, the community was named "Dime Box, Texas."

Answer: Thanks. Now will some friendly reader please send in the history behind the name of "Embarrass, Wisconsin?"

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

The first attack on the industrial heart of Japan, achieved by the superbomber B-29, came from bases in China. The bombing seems a simple operation, namely to fly to the target and back. Actually it is a mammoth undertaking. It represents an almost superhuman effort drawing on all our resources of ingenuity.

China is completely cut off from the rest of the world. Supplies must come by air. The "makings" of a bomber attack must first be transported more than half way around the globe and accumulated at the bases. This terrific handicap under which we operate in China was indicated by General Arnold in a report to the Secretary of War:

"Supply is our problem in China . . . It may throw some light to consider this fact in terms of gasoline alone. In the round trip over the Hump between Assam and Kummung, the C-87 transport now in use can deliver 4 tons of 100-octane gasoline. To do so, the airplane must consume 3½ tons of the same precious commodity.

"The crews of a heavy bombardment group in China must ferry over their own gasoline, bombs, replacement parts and everything else in their own B-24's . . . Before this Bombardment group can go on one combat flight, it must make four trips over the Hump. To perform one extremely dangerous mission, those crews must make four separate flights over the most hazardous mountain terrain in the world. Until such time as we conquer the territory and build the road into China, and/or capture a seaport, we must follow this procedure whether it is for 40 aircraft or 4,000."

—450,000 COOLIES EMPLOYED—
Nor is that all. Air bases for planes like the B-29 are big and complex. It took nearly 450,000 coolies, working day and night, to construct them. Every bit of specialized material and equipment had to be brought by plane. The undertaking was colossal.

Stop to picture it in your mind's eye—hundreds of thousands of men and probably thousands of transport planes and bombers churning and rushing for months. There has been nothing to match it perhaps since the construction of the Egyptian pyramids. Only American ingenuity and Chinese tenacity made the successful completion of the task possible.

From a purely aeronautical point of view, however, the whole undertaking was grotesque. If we had taken full advantage of existing aeronautical possibilities at the time the B-29 was decided upon, the same bombing could have been done not from China but directly from India, Australia and Alaska. The pyramid-building effort, of only 20 per cent efficiency, would have been unnecessary.

Suppose our military mentors at the time had the same vision and technological drawing as our industrial leaders and decided to install six engines instead of four. That did not represent a particularly complicated problem. There were technical difficulties to be licked, but these would have been the same whether four or six engines were used. In any case, after having done the six-engine job, we would have possessed a plane that simplified work, instead of complicating it on a pyramid-building scale.

With bombers operating from Alaska or India, we would not have been obliged to tie up a substantial part of our air power in cargo planes hauling gasoline, steel, concrete and construction machinery. With the effort and technological investment put into one base in isolated China, we probably could have obtained a great many bases in accessible regions.

—B-19 MUCH BIGGER—

The public remembers the Douglas B-19, successfully flown in 1941. Though six years younger in design, the B-19 with its span of 212 feet dwarfed the present B-29 in about the same degree that the B-29 dwarfs the Flying Fortress. Some day someone will have to answer before the judgment seat of history why, after the successful test flight of the B-19, we decided on a step backward instead of forward, by building smaller instead of larger planes.

It was certainly no fault of our aviation industry, which was quite prepared to put large planes into production. Had the decision been made to utilize this technological opportunity, endless chains of superbombers would now be raiding Japan land and day from Australia, India, and Alaska. There would be no need to sacrifice thousands of lives to win intermediary bases.

The explanation for the short-sightedness, of course, is in our national strategic timidity, particularly in relation to air power. We must recall that our Flying Fortresses and Liberators were way down on the priority lists as late as 1942. Superbombers still seemed to our military master minds far-fetched and irrelevant to reality. Each time their lack of vision became apparent, they put off action by insisting that "we must fight with what we've got today."

Now it should be clear why airmen clamored for superplanes four years ago, and continued to clamor in the face of ridicule about "fighting with weapons of tomorrow." Half a million coolies and thousands of transport planes, acting as "aerial coolies," attest to the fact that because we did not plan in terms of tomorrow we are stuck with weapons of yesterday.

A Corking Good Stunt

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

VICTOR HERBERT—Critics of Victor Herbert's music once wrote that if he had not tried so hard to be popular and write "tunes" he would have been a great composer. They might as well have said that if Strauss had not written "The Blue Danube" and other lulling tunes he would have been a "great composer."

Today, 20 years after his death, Victor Herbert "tunes" are as popular as they were between 1894 and 1917, when he wrote no less than 35 operas and operettas, not to mention much incidental music for Broadway shows. Herbert's songs are sung, his music played from coast to coast and around the world.

Herbert made two incursions into grand opera, but his fame rests solidly on his light operas, operettas and songs.

NAUGHTY MARIETTA—One of Herbert's most sparkling and tuneful light operas is "Naughty Marietta," favorite of the American public for nearly 40 years. It contains some of the most singable, hummable tunes ever sung and hummed by a tune-loving American people.

There is "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," "Italian Street Song" and many others.

You will be permitted to hear the complete Victor Herbert score, sung by America's foremost artists, in Escanaba July 6 when the New York Civic Opera company will bring it here under sponsorship of Town Hall. There is a complete cast, colorful costumes and, of course, some of the best voices of the concert stage.

The company has presented light opera in most of the big cities of the country, was recently in Detroit. It's an opportunity for music lovers—and an invitation to those who like spectacular ballet, gorgeous scenery and a glamorous chorus.

THE STORY—While the plot of light opera is generally considered an inconsequential thread on which to hang beautiful music, "Naughty Marietta" has an amusing and romantic story based on the book by Rida Johnson Young. Time of the play is about 1750, and the place is New Orleans.

Briefly, the story is that of an American captain sent to New Orleans to capture a notorious pirate. There the captain meets Marietta, who has come to the New World from France to escape marriage. There are plots and counter-plots, Marietta dressed in a boy's clothes to escape detection, the pirate incognito is the son of the governor, and a ball at which a beautiful slave girl is auctioned. The whirling, swirling action, the dances, songs and music are in the best Victor Herbert tradition.

TO THE FUTURE—Ticket sales indicate a high degree of interest in the coming summer attraction, the first Escanaba has had for many years. Music lovers are hopeful it will not be the last. How well "Naughty Marietta" is patronized will determine whether more of the better entertainment companies will make Escanaba in the future.

What the future holds in store in the entertainment field is somewhat of a mystery. But of one thing we may be sure: The legitimate theater is far from dead! The moving picture, the radio will never fill the place of the stage—of performers, of singers in the flesh. While the radio music and radio play have their place, and the moving picture has an additional advantage in combining sight and sound, there is a turning toward and yearning for "real" entertainment.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

A wind storm in the Escanaba area uprooted trees and blew down electric power lines, leaving the city of Escanaba in darkness for more than an hour last night.

The total assessed valuation of Delta county has been equalized at $16,982,268, a reduction of nearly $350,000 below last year's figure. Because this action will reduce tax revenue, the county board has adopted certain economy measures which, it is hoped, will prevent a deficit. One of these is the elimination of the office of assistant prosecuting attorney.

Following the resignation of August Lundgaard of Cornell from the county road commission, August Larson of Rock was appointed to succeed him.

20 Years Ago—1924

Gladstone—Twenty members of the Gladstone Rotary Club will leave today for Munising where they will visit Grand Island, joining with delegations from other clubs in the annual U. P. Rotary convention.

Manistiquette—The Rev. R. S. Sidebotham of the Presbyterian church arrived in this city yesterday from Alma where he had attended a meeting of the Presbyterian Synod.

Miss Margaret Yelland, 16-year-old daughter of Judge Yelland, rendered a piano recital at her home yesterday in which she demonstrated her ability as a pianist to a large number of friends. She is the student of Mrs. W. H. Summers.

25 Years Ago—1919

Escanaba schools will close today for the summer vacation.

County Clerk Albert J. Pepin was the first person in the county to apply this year for an automobile driver's license. It is expected that about 2,500 persons will apply for license in this county.

Emmett Garrigan, 38, of Munising, has enlisted in the army at Escanaba recruiting station and will be sent to Jefferson barracks, Capt. Charles Good, son of Supervisor F. W. Good of Nahma, who has served as a captain in the forestry service in France, has returned to his home.

Need a reviver? Take a whiff of old-fashioned smelling salts. Not because you're going to faint, but because it's a good pick-upper.

after the war will know what this means, having seen and heard in the flesh the best entertainers this country has to offer.

SUMMER STOCK—It is the summer theater that holds most promise for the people in smaller communities such as Escanaba. It is the "off-season" in the heat-shrouded cities, giving entertainers an opportunity to combine a vacation and bring the stage to the outlands.

Some cities have made of the summer theater not only an entertainment for the home folks but an attraction for all of the resort people in the area. Fish Creek is one of these. In this Door County (Wisconsin) summer place the theater is an almost nightly event.

FOR ESCANABA—The time is coming when Escanaba will be better equipped as a host for summer entertainments.

You probably know but have forgotten that a large stage and bandshell, together with required seating, is included in plans for the development of Ludington Park. The city's plan now looks as if it were slow in accomplishment, but give it a few postwar years and much that is now on paper will become an actuality.

When Escanaba has an outdoor theater, set attractively along the shore of the bay, concerts, operettas, drama will be the accepted summer entertainment.

July 6 and "Naughty Marietta" is forerunner of what Escanaba can have in the future.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Navy Lieut. Eddy Duchin was on a vessel which participated in the invasion of France. In the days and nights that his ship darted in and out of the coastal waters, Duchin and his shipmates were mindful of the fact that at any moment their lives might end. And when the ship returned safely to England, Lieut. Duchin confessed that before the bombs began to drop, he decided, not knowing whether he'd ever have another chance to do so, to try a few things which always had seemed distasteful to him. For the first time in his life, therefore, he smoked cigars and pulled a pipe. He discovered that he didn't like them.

AT AN AIR-STRIP at a South Pacific base, a strange pilot was coming in for a landing. He hadn't as yet signalled the control tower. As he neared the field, he received instructions from the tower to get out of the way, quickly, because a flight of fighters was coming in. The unknown pilot banked and started to move out. The control tower signalled him again, to fly the other way—that he was flying towards the fighter planes. . . . The planes finally made their landings, and the control tower signalled the unidentified pilot to come in. . . . The plane landed perfectly, and from it stepped the pilot, Charles A. Lindbergh.

WHEN WINSTON CHURCHILL made a speech in which he listed the 12 best Generals in the British armies, seven of the names were Irish. . . . The Irish newspapers were forbidden, by law, to mention that Irishmen are serving in the armed forces, lest it be considered a breach of neutrality. The Irish Times, however, found a way of publishing the Churchill statement. It reported the Prime Minister's selection of the 12 best Generals. "Five of these are English," read the story. "And seven are Japanese—three from the North of Ireland and four from the South."

ALEX HILLMAN, the magazine publisher, still is expanding his publication enterprises. He began in the depression days, when he managed to meet Otto Kahn and asked for $25,000 with which to establish his first magazine. The financier, explained to the young man that his fortune too had been hit, and that his money was tied up. . . . Hillman thought a while and made another proposal: "A bank official I went to told me that all I'd really need is a note signed by a responsible person. If you could sign that note, he'd give me the money." . . . "If you'd bring me a note signed by someone like me," Kahn replied, "I'd give you the money myself."

A 17-YEAR-OLD apprentice seaman aboard a destroyer escort which crossed the Channel to Normandy on D-Day was a Brooklyn youngster who had studied to become the radio operator aboard the ship. When he was asked why he had selected this job for himself, he explained: "It's wonderful. This is the only job in the Navy where every day I can listen in and get the baseball scores." . . . Frank Phillips, the millionaire oil-man, was asked for a $5,000 political contribution. Phillips, who used to contribute much larger sums in other days, quickly agreed and added: "The finest law ever passed was the one limiting such contributions to $5,000." . . . Eugene Lyons, editor of the forthcoming "Pageant," says he now feels secure in his new post. "I've received one abusive letter, two subscriptions from Major Seversky and M. Lincoln Schuster, and I've beaten my publisher at gin-rummy."

Put two or three tablespoons of kerosene in a boilerful of white clothes to help lighten them. Be sure to rinse thoroughly to remove any odor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Chicago—In many ways this convention seems out of place, unreal. Here are hotels along Michigan Boulevard which, just a few months ago, were leased by the Army and crammed with soldiers; now they are crammed with political delegates.

Across one ocean, men are battling on the Cherbourg Peninsula after a landing that seemed almost impossible. Across the other, the U. S. Navy is edging closer to Japan than anyone dreamed would be possible at this time. News of the war pushes news of the convention to one side.

Some delegates whisper half-jokingly that perhaps Franklin D. Roosevelt scheduled the second front and the Pacific battles purposely to push the GOP convention out of the headlines, though actually they rejoice at the victories and know that weather, our allies, and military factors—not politics—shape the decisions.

But though this convention seems incongruous, in reality it is a tribute to the strength of American democracy. Perhaps no other country would dare try to weather a wartime election. Britain has adjourned politics, so has Latin America. Canada has held only provincial elections. Four years ago, certain newspapers predicted that Roosevelt would never permit another election until the war was over. But now the first hop in electing a President has begun.

—DEWEY'S FRIENDS—

Here are the men whose patient years of building up Tom Dewey will crash or succeed in the next 42 hours.

Closest man to Dewey, and the man who has known him most intimately during the years, is his secretary, able, amiable, bluff, hard-working Paul Lockwood. An ex-New York newspaperman, Lockwood guided Dewey through the early maze of political pitfalls which threatened the young racket-buster. He is what Louie Howe was to Franklin Roosevelt, and if his young protegee makes it this week, to Paul Lockwood will go a large share of the credit. "Destiny," says Lockwood, "waits on no man," explaining the necessity for Dewey to run now. "By 1948, an Eisenhower will come out of the war. This is Dewey's year."

Political mentor to the young GOP hopeful is buffalo-heavy-jowled, tough-talking Edwin F. Jaekle, chairman of the New York State GOP Committee. Born of German immigrants, Jaekle waxed wealthy on the job of collecting back New York taxes, became New York's shrewdest, though not most diplomatic up-State GOP leader. He would like to forget, however, that he once drew up the incorporation papers of the German-American Bund, and he has tried to atone for it by helping to found the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Considered something of a political bull in a china shop, some Republicans think Jaekle will have a tough time if he gets into tight pinches. Indiscreet, he refused to let Polish GOP Congressman Mruk of Buffalo run for re-election, thereby bringing down on his head the charge by Congressman Sadowski of Michigan that Jaekle discriminates against Poles and Catholics.

Herbert Brownell, who came out of Nebraska to practice law in New York, was Dewey's campaign manager in his successful race for Governor in 1942 and continues at the steering wheel now. For several years a member of the New York Legislature, he helped put through the racket-buster's criminal reform bills.

J. Russell Sprague, as smooth as the oysters his father used to hoist from Long Island Sound, is the chief backstage operator for Dewey at Chicago. Born and bred in New York politics, Sprague has been GOP boss of Nassau County, Long Island, for years but has little experience in the big political world outside. Except for George Medallie, he is the oldest of the young men around Dewey. His age 57.

Herbert Hoover was not enthusiastic about Dewey when he belonged to the liberal La Guardia group. But gradually the ex-President has become one of Dewey's ardent but silent admirers. In fact, his enthusiasm for Dewey for a time became so embarrassing that Hoover issued a public statement that he was not pushing Dewey or any other GOP candidate for nomination.

When asked about his association with Hoover, Dewey has a prompt answer: "You can quote me as saying: Mr. Hoover is a fine old gentleman and I am fond of him. But Dewey has always surrounded himself with men who look toward the future."

Republican Senators, talking with Hoover last winter, got the distinct impression that he was slated to be Secretary of State in the Dewey Cabinet, but the Governor's friends have now made it clear that this key foreign affairs post is more likely to go to John Foster Dulles, attorney for J. P. Morgan and keen student of foreign affairs.

would talk about the occasional snipers with contempt and disgust. But here sniping has become more important, and taking precautions against it is something we have had to learn and learn fast.

One officer friend of mine said: "Individual soldiers have become sniper-wise before, but now we're sniper-conscious as whole units."

Snipers kill as many Americans as they can, and then when their food and ammunition run out they surrender. To an American that isn't quite ethical. The average American soldier has little feeling against the average German soldier who has fought an open fight and lost. But his feelings about the sneaking snipers can't very well be put into print. He is learning how to kill the snipers before the time comes for them to surrender.

As a matter of fact this part of France is very difficult for anything but fighting between small groups. It is a country of little fields, every one bordered by a thick hedge and a high fence of trees. There is hardly any place where you can see beyond the field ahead of you. Most of the time a soldier doesn't see more than a hundred yards in any direction.

In other places the ground is flooded and swampy with a growth of high, jungle-like grass. In this kind of stuff it is almost man-to-man warfare. One officer who has served a long time in the Pacific says this fighting is the nearest thing to Guadalcanal that he has seen since.

Some Freak Stories
Thousands of little personal stories will dribble out of D-Day on the Normandy Beachhead. A few that I pick up from time to time I will pass along to you.

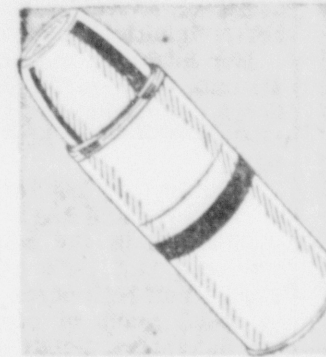

The freakiest story I've heard is of an officer who was shot through the face. He had his mouth wide open at the time, yelling at somebody. The bullet went in one cheek and right through his mouth without touching a thing, not even his teeth, and out the other cheek. That sounds dreadful, but actually the wound is a fairly slight one and the officer will be in action again before very long.

Capt. Ralph L. Hagen of Prospect, Va., claims the distinction of being the first American Chaplain to set foot on French soil in World War II.

He hit the beach 65 minutes after H-Hour, with the combat engineer unit to which he is attached. Like everybody else he had rough going, but he wasn't hurt. He is a Methodist and before the war was a pastor at Bassett, Va.

The women they'll never forget!

THIS WAS A RED-LETTER DAY for Jim—the soldier who had lost the use of his leg at Salerno. For this day he walked—strictly alone—for the first time in months. To Jim, it was a miracle. To the Wac who had coached him so long and so patiently, he said, "Sister, if I live to be a million, I'll always remember you for this."

THIS IS A WORLD WAR. The most terrible of all recorded events in human history.

And this is what the Wacs—the women soldiers of our Army—are doing about it:

Working in critical hospital jobs. Helping to restore the broken bodies and spirits of fighting men.

Working as lip-readers. Helping blind men to see again through knowledge of Braille. Working as laboratory technicians. As pharmacists. As psychiatric assistants. As ambulance drivers.

Working in control towers. Making strategy maps for invasion.

Manning the giant switchboards that send combat orders winging to tensely waiting bomber crews.

Working night and day at vital jobs. Jobs that will speed the day of liberation—and give us peace again.

These are the women "they'll never forget"...

Gallantly, a new page is being written into American history by the women of the Women's Army Corps.

Worry Clinic With Case Records Of A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-281: George, aged 14, is our oldest child.

"Look at this article on hypnosis," he exclaimed eagerly, as he thrust it before me.

"It says that hypnosis is curing drunkards and blazing new trails into the hidden recesses of the mind."

"Hypnotism is not a new instrument of modern psychiatry."

"Dad, do you use it very often? Why don't you try it on Philip and me?"

Diagnosis

This glowing account of hypnosis is the type of journalistic effusion that physicians see red.

Hypnotism is not a new instrument of modern psychiatry. Dr. Sigmund Freud utilized it and then discarded it 50 years ago, for he found that better results could usually be employed without such a device.

Like other psychologists and psychiatrists, I use it occasionally. When you normal people can't think of a familiar name, but say it's just on the tip of your tongue, you demonstrate what we call an emotional blocking of ideas.

Sometimes this type of blocking can quickly be eliminated, as in the example of an amnesia patient, by use of hypnosis. Though hypnosis isn't essential even in that type of case.

Headline Thinkers

Too many Americans are what I term "headline thinkers." They jump to dramatic conclusions on the basis of a few fragments of facts, usually highly exaggerated. Or they distort a cautiously stated scientific precept and apply it indiscriminately to situations where it definitely does not fit.

A young man recently applied for a job, and cited as evidence of his ability the fact that he had recently taken a civil service examination where he had rated second highest!

That sounded big, until his prospective employer asked him how many had taken the examination. Then he hesitatingly admitted that only two persons had done so!

A writer or salesman tends to look for headline stuff and distort facts in order to shock readers or potential customers. This flair for hyperbole has some useful functions, but a practical American with horse sense must always season the startling new claims with a few shrewd queries.

Facts About Hypnosis

Hypnosis is an artificial sleep that can be induced only when the patient cooperates and actually wants to undergo such an experience.

Even then most people cannot be hypnotized until after many attempts. Those who react so beautifully on the stage or before college classes have usually been carefully selected and then rehearsed many times to train them to be hypnotized quickly.

The chief value of hypnosis lies in the patient's ability to focus his attention on a single idea without the usual drain of attention by the waking distractions of noise and temperature, touch, smell, taste, etc.

Thus, he can perform feats of strength not possible in the waking state, and can recall memories that aren't easily accessible to his conscious mind.

But hypnosis does not build new habits, and thus make you a musician over night nor cure you of inferiority complexes that have driven you into alcoholism as an escape.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Christian Science Churches

"God" will be the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 2.

The Golden Text (II Samuel 22: 32, 33) is: "Who is God, save the Lord? and who is a rock, save our God? God is my strength and power; and he maketh my way perfect."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalms 62: 7, 11): "In God is my salvation and my glory; the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God. God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (228): "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

The Daughters of Isabella rosary crusade prayers for world peace and safety of men in service will be offered at St. Joseph's church this afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Ruth Hanna Campaigned For Dewey Five Years

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Chicago—When Governor Dewey is nominated by the Republican party in the convention assembled, there is one woman here in Chicago who will feel a high enthusiasm and a rich sense of reward.

For nearly five years, Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms has worked with the considerable vitality and brains she possesses for this objective. In fact, his nomination will owe not a little to her zeal.

It sets her apart somewhat since Dewey is not one who inspires enthusiasm in most people. Respect for his capacities, Yes. Envy of his skill and his good fortune, Yes.

But enthusiasm is rare. The rank and file are nominating Dewey because they believe with him they'll have their best chance to defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt for a fourth term.

She's Not An Amateur

The past 10 days have seen the climax of Mrs. Simms' campaign for Dewey. In two basement rooms in the Blackstone Hotel she has received a constant stream of convention visitors. Many of them have been westerners since Mrs. Simms is a delegate from New Mexico, her home state, and she works a big family ranch in Colorado.

It would be grossly unfair to call Mrs. Simms an amateur in politics. The daughter of old Mark Hanna, the Ohio president maker, she has been attending these Republican shindies since 1896. No amateur would have stuck it out after seeing all her efforts washed away in the revolt for Wilkie at Philadelphia four years ago.

But in the sense that she doesn't need to make politics her business, Mrs. Simms is an amateur. Inheriting two fortunes, one from her father and one from her first husband, Medill McCormick, senator from Illinois and brother of Colonel Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, Mrs. Simms has never been able to spend her income.

As to the myth, however, of the king-maker, the Boise Penrose, that seems to be largely false. A member of Pennsylvania's delegation of 70, who should know, tells me that for all his benevolence to the party, Pew could not swing more than ten votes.

It happens that Pennsylvania has a well-liked governor in Edward Martin who is not only the chairman of his state's delegation but the real boss, too. All this Joe Pew tells you with polite insistence and yet you have the feeling that in his generous suite at the Blackstone he rather enjoys the myth of his vast political power.

Between the Maharajahs at the Blackstone and the Grass-Roots delegates in the confusion of the Stevens across the street is something of a gulf. Democratic propaganda, however, to the effect that the political thinking of the rank and file is dictated by the big boys misses fire. The great mass of Republicans, the small business men, the farmers, think conservatively, perhaps even more

ADULTS BLAMED
712 So. 10th Street,
Escanaba, Michigan,
June 27, 1944.

Dear Editor:

Boys of the state department of public instruction, I read, blamed adults for increased drinking and other evils which lead to juvenile delinquency. Teachers should be more strict, they say.

Are the boys right? Are adults at fault? Should the teachers be more strict? More strict with whom?

The boys ask for "youth recreation centers" to "be run with a minimum of adult interference." What do they mean by "adult interference?" Has maturity lost its sense of the needs and desires of youth? Can age not be trusted? Or do the youth just want their own way?

Well organized plans wisely supervised, clean recreation, good association, constructive art and thinking and clean living will be of great benefit. But if youth wants to go its own way unrestrained and without guidance and supervision from those of mature years, those responsible and dependable and wishes to run a youth center according to the inhibitions and fancies of youth, the remedy may be worse than the disease.

I am not one who believes the youth are inherently and always bad, but the proverb "Old men for counsel, young men for strength" is still true.

If youth centers are to be provided at public expense and are to be only a gathering place to engage in cheap jokes, low conversation tainted with smutty stories, a place where young people smoke and drink soft drinks and where teen agers associate in a loose way, using it as a place to meet and go out, then we should stop before we start and place the responsibility of youth on the parents, where it should be, or the pure will become defiled and the vile will grow worse.

Whether they believe it or not whether they accept it or not every parent, under God, is responsible for every phase of every development of every child he brings into the world. Unless parents sense this responsibility and fulfill it wisely and in the fear of God their children may lose that freedom for which our boys are now fighting and dying.

Youth what is your response to the word of the Apostle Paul, "Children obey your parents in the Lord for this is right." Parents, what is your answer to the admonition of the same writer, "You, fathers—bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Eph. 6:1-4.

Let us who are parents carefully and honestly fulfill our God given duty and not trust it to the public.

Yours for a better America.
C. B. Messer.

WHITMAN LAUDS ALASKAN ROAD

New Highway Opens Big Country, Telephone
Lineman Says

The Alaskan Highway, threading 1600 miles through the vast Yukon territory from Edmonton, Alberta, to Fairbanks, Alaska, is a fine 24-foot gravel highway, serving as an effective means of communication to American armed forces in the Alaskan territory, Clayton Whitman, former Manistique resident, reported here Monday. Whitman returned from Alaska last Friday after working nine months as a telephone lineman on the Alaskan highway and the Canal project.

Disputing reports that the new highway into the Yukon territory is incapable of handling heavy traffic, Whitman declared that the road is very similar to gravelled highway in Michigan and emphasized that the route today is providing a means of transporting thousands of tons of military supplies overland to Alaska.

Whitman said that unfavorable reports on the Alaska highway originated from workmen who returned to this country before the highway was completed. He explained that he arrived on the project last September when many workmen were returning to this country, their phases of the job having been completed. The highway at that time was anything but a smooth road, Whitman said. Many portions of the road had to be resurfaced and resurfaced. Now, however, the highway is complete and is handling the heaviest traffic, including huge trailers and buses. The road was kept open all winter, Whitman said, in much the same manner that upper peninsula highways were maintained.

The former Manistique resident, now residing in Sault Ste. Marie, reported that the project was brought to completion only after the surmounting of great obstacles, not the least of which is the tremendously cold winter climate of the area. Temperatures as low as 60 degrees below zero were common, Whitman reported, and motor vehicles were kept running 24 hours a day. Despite this fact, it often was necessary to build fires under tractors as often as three times per day.

The Canal project, subject of much criticism in congress, also has been completed, Whitman reported. He said that the oil from the tractors without refining, moving by straining. The oil is now being piped to refineries in the Yukon territory and distributed to areas throughout the Alaskan and northern Canada territories.

Although the route is now strictly a military highway, Whitman predicted the road will become a popular tourist road in the post-war period. He described the Yukon and Alaskan territories as gorgeously beautiful, abounding in wild stocked lakes and streams. In many of the areas, hunting is restricted to the natives, he added.

M'NEIL OFFERS HIS RESIGNATION

Council Asks Reconsideration; Election Boards Picked

Resignation of Councilman Sherman McNeil read to the city council Monday was tabled by the council with request that McNeil reconsider. McNeil who has served on the council since 1942 reported that the condition of his health and personal reasons prompted his action.

The board that will take care of the election July 11 in Manistique received approval. If possible, the same personnel will serve that handled the election in April. Inspectors in precinct one will be Neiga Swanson, Mary Leonard and Charles Swingle; clerks, Dorothy Judd, Lillian Curran; and gatekeeper, Theodore Gould. Second precinct: inspectors, Roy Roberts, John Burns, Eva Besner, clerks, Gladys Downing, Alice Peterson; and gatekeeper, Charles Marin. Precinct three: inspectors, Russell Brault, Henry Gauthier, Ian Winn; clerks, Gertrude Craver, Hilda Nylander; gatekeeper, Nick Greisen. Fourth precinct: inspectors will be Max Larson, Gust Peterson, Nellie Raredon; clerks, Bertha Deemer, Inez Coffey; gatekeeper, C. M. Drevdahl.

On its third reading, ordinance 51 of 1944 passed the council authorizing the levying of taxes to raise the $72,272.50 necessary to operate the city for the coming year.

In a communication from the state planning commission the city was informed that their allotment for post-war planning had been cut to $3,428.32, some $12 less than the original allocation according to City Manager Charles D. Manson.

Mayor Walter Burns brought up the question of a raise for the city treasurer and told the council that several other city employees had also asked why they were excluded from wage increases granted this year. The council concluded that since the budget had already been drawn up and passed, other wage adjustments would have to be put off till next year.

Claim For Slaying Of Pig By Bear Is Rejected By County

The county board of supervisors Monday rejected a claim of $75 for the slaying of a pig by a bear in the county after the prosecuting attorney ruled the county is not liable for such damages, even though the county has protected bear by establishing a closed season.

The board voted to send four delegates to the state association of county supervisors meeting at Port Huron August 8-9-10, naming Walter Burns and Al Heitman of Manistique, Leonard Carley, Cooks, and Cecil Johnson, Thompson, as delegates. An effort will be made at the meeting to have a portion of the state sales tax receipts disbursed to the counties for welfare purposes.

Efforts also will be made to have the state pay a proportionate share of the cost of hospitalizing county indigents.

A letter from the state conservation department was read at the Monday afternoon session of the board in which the conservation department rejected the offer for title to the dam on the Indian River. The department reported that it has no funds for maintenance of the dam.

NOVICE BIRLING SECTION OPENS

New Class Is Open To Children 12 Years
And Under

Because of the large number of youngsters, who have shown interest in the sport, competition will be held in a novice birling division as part of the junior roles which will be held here July 4th. It was announced yesterday by Cliff Frasher, recreation director.

Sections for both boys and girls will be held in this division, which will be open to children 12 years of age and under. "An average of from 25 to 30 youngsters have been reporting nightly to Billy Girard to receive birling lessons and the majority of them are in this age group," Frasher said. "They feel that they have not had sufficient experience to enter the junior competition and so the committee felt that it is only fair to these children to open another class in view of the interest they are taking in the sport," he added.

The recreation department will open today an additional period of instruction in birling for both boys and girls from 2:30 to 4 p. m. each day, when Mrs. Suzanne Quistoff will give instructions in the art at the lagoon. Parents are requested to send children to the lagoon for practice only during the regular afternoon or evening practice periods. Evening practice sessions begin at 7 o'clock.

Ray Davis of Neagawee and Gordon Houtel of Gladstone, who won the log sawing title on two occasions in competition held as part of the Nahma Shindig program, are the first entries to file for the contest which will be held here on July 4th. Their entry was received by the committee Monday, while that of Clarence Goodman and Billy Girard, the first local team to enter, was received yesterday.

In addition to other local teams, the committee is expecting several entries from surrounding communities. Entries in the swimming contests are coming in slowly and those who desired to compete are reminded that they should file by the July 1 deadline.

FIREMEN WILL RECEIVE BONUS

Commission Rescinds
Action Taken At Spring Meeting

Rescinding a resolution passed at a meeting this spring, the Gladstone city commission at its meeting Monday night voted to grant the annual bonus to all volunteer members of the fire department, regardless of whether they attend the upper peninsula tournament or not.

A grant of $300 is annually set aside in the city budget to be used as a bonus for the 30 volunteer members of the department. This spring, however, the commission decided to grant the bonus of $15 per member to only those members who were attending the tournament. After listening to the arguments of a delegation of volunteers Monday night, the city fathers revoked their previous action.

Following granting of the bonus, the volunteers challenged the members of the commission to a water fight but the governing body refrained from taking any action regarding this matter.

Other business on the docket included granting a dance permit to Frank Sirola, 709 Delta, and a discussion regarding the concession at the city bathing beach. The commission went on record favoring renting of the concession and placed the matter in the hands of the acting city manager.

Members of the commission will attend the Friday night session of the annual meeting of the Michigan Municipal League, which is being held at Escanaba this week. Acting City Manager H. J. Hendrickson will attend the entire session. Speaker at the Friday night program will be Dr. Grover C. Dillman, president of Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, and a member of the Michigan planning commission.

His topic will be The Program of the Upper Peninsula Technical Development Committee.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you. Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

DRAFT BECKENS GRIDIRON STAR

Frankie Sinkwich, Again Civilian Has Date With Board

Youngstown, O., June 27 (AP)—Fireball Frankie Sinkwich, former Georgia All-America who was Detroit's top ground gainer in the National football league last year, is back in civilian life temporarily, but he has another date with his Athens, Ga., draft board next week.

Sinkwich disclosed today at his home here that a merchant marine discharge because of ailing feet was pending. Last fall he received a medical discharge from the Marines.

Giant Center Will Play With Detroit

Detroit, June 27 (AP)—The Detroit Lions of the National football league announced today the signing of Russ Lee Morrow, six-foot, eight-inch center from St. Louis University whose elevation should make snapping back the ball a relatively easy operation. Morrow weighs 200 pounds.

He is the sixth new player signed by the Lions, whose 1943 roster is largely in the armed forces.

Electric Starting Gun Fine, Only Won't Help

BY WHITNEY MARTIN New York, (AP)—We just made a couple of false starts on this piece, something that never would have happened. Lawson Robertson says, with the "Electric Gun" he demonstrated after the epidemic of gun jumping in the National A. A. U. 100-meter dash a week ago.

As near as we can figure out the starter is wired for sound with Mr. Robertson's gadget. Or wired for no sound, as if a runner leaves the mark before the gun sounds, the gun doesn't sound. The contrivance smacks of one of Ray Dumont's brain-children, with its underground wires, electric plates and what not. Mr. Dumont has practically completed the electrification of semi-pro baseball and a player can't move out there without getting in front of some seeing-eye device which will ring a bell, blow a whistle or call him out on strikes.

LaVelle Is Cynical Jack LaVelle, 280 pounds or so of bruised dignity who was the man behind the gun in the unfortunate episode a week ago when all six finalists were disqualified, asks plaintively: "How is this electric thing going to prevent false starts? There's nothing to prevent a man from leaving his mark before the gun sounds, and if he does the gun can't be fired, so it's a false start, and two of them disqualify a runner anyway."

Which is true enough. All the electric gun can do is prevent recalls, as the gun can't be fired to bring the men back. On recalls, where the starter fires the gun after seeing too late a man get off an unfair start, and then fires it again to bring the field back. There is no penalty. Therefore, all illegitimate starts with the electric gun would be false starts.

FAIR BALL — Attractive, six-foot Spar, Gretchen Pierce, rear back and lets 'em have it pitching baseball for Newport News club in Fifth War Loan Drive game. (NEA Photo.)

Here's a thought on saving your make-up. Try dabbing the powder instead of applying it in a shower.

LaVelle is one of the best starters in the business. He's jovial and witty and has a soothing way about him that quiets skittish athletes. He's a 280-pound jockey when it comes to getting those runners' nerves to quit jumping.

Cannot Be Done Frankly, we don't see how any device could prevent false starts, unless starting gates were used. Which isn't so silly as it might sound, although it brings up the picture of trainers leading the athletes by halters to their cages. As long as there is nothing in front of them to stop them, there always will be athletes who beat the gun, and all the wired lightning and automatically muffled guns in the world won't stop them. And two false starts and they're out, whether the gun is controlled by a spark plug or it is Jack LaVelle's pudgy finger squeezing the trigger.

A barrier of some sort, or a guy behind each runner holding him by the seat of the pants until it's time to get going seem to be the only ways to keep the boys making false starts, although we're getting away to a fair start without either of those measures. We're starting on a vacation right now. It's a two-week race, with no handicap. No scratch, either, for that matter.

2 WOLVERINES WIN MATCHES

Jenswold And Messenger In Semi-Finals Of College Golf

BY HAROLD HARRISON Toledo, O., June 27 (AP)—Louis Lick, 20-year-old University of Minnesota medical student from St. Paul, turned in the first big upset of the National Intercollegiate golf tournament today when he uncorred a sub-par round to drub medalist James Jackson of Washington University of St. Louis, 6 and 5, and gain a place in the semi-finals.

Joining Lick in the semi-finals were Johnny Jenswold of Michigan, the Big Ten champion; Henry Rampelt, Baldwin-Wallace college's dark horse entrant, and slender Tom Messenger of Michigan.

Lick's round against Jackson was just about as hot as the blistering sun which beat down on the Inverness Country Club's long course. He was three strokes under par for the 13 holes the match went.

Jackson's round wasn't bad either—only three over par—but there wasn't much he could do against the birdies Lick tossed at him.

Jenswold, a tow-headed naval trainee who lives at Duluth, Minn., was almost as hot in his 8 and 7 victory over James Harris of Minnesota. He played the first nine holes in even par to be six up and then finished one under perfect figures.

Rampelt, who kept the semi-finals from being an all-Big Ten affair, matched booming tee shots with Phil Marcellus of Michigan and out-steaded the husky Wolverine to win, 6 and 5.

The closest match of the afternoon was Messenger's 5 and 4 triumph over Robert Love of Ohio State. Love stayed within a hole of the long-hitting Messenger until near the end of the first nine. He lost the eighth and ninth to be three down at the turn and never was able to catch up.

In the forenoon, Jenswold trimmed Paul O'Hara of Michigan, 5 and 3. Lick ran away from Tom Hamilton of Notre Dame, 8 and 7. Rampelt whipped Arnold Page of Cornell, 3 and 2, and Messenger won a 3 and 2 match from Robert Bronson of Minnesota.

The semi-finals tomorrow forenoon will find Lick pitted against Messenger and Jenswold clashing with Rampelt.

Relief Hurlers Of White And Red Sox Big Help To Clubs

New York, June 27 (AP)—Gordy Maltzberger of the Chicago White Sox and Mike Ryba of the Boston Red Sox are doing their bit to glamorize the forgotten men of the bull pen by helping their clubs run a pennant fever in the American league's first division. With Orval Grove, Bill Dietrich, Thornton Lee or Ed Lopat start to weaken, Jimmy Dykes calls for Maltzberger who twice has beaten St. Louis and Washington and Cleveland. Only the Boston Red Sox were able to beat him 3-2 in a 12-inning game on May 19. Dykes would use him on the front line if he weren't so valuable in Reserve.

C&NW "400" Wins At Green Bay, 17-0

The Chicago Northwestern "400" old timers softball team representing the Escanaba car shop defeated the Green Bay car shop team at Green Bay Sunday by a score of 17-0. The game was played as one of the features of the annual picnic.

Battery for the Escanaba team were Kuchenberg and Fred Boddy. Other men who made the trip via the "400" train were Mike O'Donnell, Ed Burbe, Axel Anderson, Joseph Guay, Francis McGovern, Luke Genderson, Jack Laundry, Eddy Hamelin, and team manager Claude Fisher.

Col. Matt Winn at 84 Oldest Man in Nation Connected With Sports

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY (Pinch hitting for vacationing Whitney Martin) Chicago, June 27 (AP)—Churchill west. . . On that date was the first Ulysses S. Grant was president of the United States. . . Indians were still causing unrest in the west. . . On the date was the first Kentucky Derby.

Col. Matt Winn, at a boy 14 years old, was present that historic day, watching Aristides galloping to victory. He viewed the race from the back of his father's grocery wagon, never boy-dreaming that he later was to become the guiding genius of America's No. 1 turf classic. He is one of the few living who saw the first Kentucky Derby and has seen every ensuing Derby during the last 70 years.

84 On Friday For the last 45 years he has been its poobah, developing the race into the greatest, oldest, richest, breath-taking spectacle of the turf.

Which is getting around to mention that on Friday Col. Winn will celebrate his 84th birthday anniversary to become the oldest man in the nation actively connected with sports. Kenesaw Mountain Landis, respected commissioner of baseball, is 77. Connie Mack, beloved owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, is 81. A. Alonzo Stagg, football's "grand old man," will be 83 on August 16.

How does Col Winn manage to stay up there, poking his nose under the wire a winner, at his age, manage three race tracks? He's got the answer.

Never Worries "Never worry. Always keep living in the future. Never in the past. As each day dies it should be buried with the dead."

Col. Winn has snow-white hair, ruddy cheeks, clear blue eyes, an inexhaustible fund of energy and good humor, and he stands erect. He doesn't look a day over 50.

He hasn't consulted a doctor, officially, in 44 years and has all his teeth with the exception of four. He blames that loss on his dentists.

"Not so good," he says regretfully. "Those dentist fellows made me lose four of my teeth and that's too many. They tell me I am one of the few living, who at my age, have their wisdom teeth. A man certainly needs his wisdom teeth around a race track."

Col. Winn, who drinks an occasional highball of Kentucky bourbon mixed with water, has never bothered with a diet. He eats what he likes and goes to bed when the spirit moves him. He has never owned a thoroughbred. He refers to them as "horses," not horses. Since he became a racing executive he has never made a wager on a horse. He tries sincerely to enforce a strict rule which is that no one connected with his organization should bet.

Today Col. Winn is the most dominant figure in racing. He is the managing director of Churchill Downs at Louisville, Ky., and Lincoln Fields in Chicago, recently was elected president of the Empire City race track at Yonkers, N. Y., and is the man behind the scenes at Laurel race track near Baltimore, Md.

Col. Winn, a widower, lives in a luxurious suite in Chicago's Drake hotel to be near his married daughters.

Store felt hats, well cleaned and aired, covered with paper in a dry place. Dampness can cause mildew on this soft material.

Shortening of Wisconsin's upland bird hunting seasons has been recommended by members of the state conservation congress meeting in Madison. The state's ruffed grouse was on the down-grade last fall and has not recovered sufficiently to warrant another heavy kill.

The congress suggested a 16-day season for pheasants a 30-day season of ruffed grouse in northern counties and a 16-day season on ruffed grouse in southern counties. Last year there was a 30-day season on pheasant, a 45-day season on ruffed grouse in northern counties and a 27-day season on grouse in southern counties.

Close to 500 fishermen tried their luck at Cedar River Sunday, the opening day of the black bass season, and many got the limit of five, although fishing was spotty. It was best mainly in the morning and evening. Some sportsmen came from as far as Green Bay.

A conservation officer working out of Menominee reported that for 15-minutes about 10 o'clock Sunday morning fish were caught at the rate of one a minute or more from the Big Cedar river bridge from which 62 fishermen were fishing. While many of the fishermen congregated at the M-25 bridge, others were strung out from the river mouth to four miles upstream.

FAVOR SEGURA TO KEEP TITLE

Colorful Netman Wins With Ease In NCAA Tourney

Evanston, Ill., June 27. (AP)—Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Miami (Fla.) university breezed a step closer today to his second straight singles championship in the N. C. A. A. tennis tournament with a short-and-sweet triumph over Dale Lewis of Utah State, 6-1, 6-0.

In moving into tomorrow's quarter-final round with seven other contenders, Segura befuddled his young Rocky Mountain conference foe with sizzling drives and tricky lobs for a quick three-round killing. The parade into the quarter-final was almost a solid southern and far western blot, including five of the six seeded players. Notre Dame's Charlie Sampson, who bested Bob Lewis of Utah, 6-4, 6-2, was the only midwesterner to survive the third round.

The east's last survivor fell by the wayside when fourth-seeded Johnny Hickman of Texas trimmed Bob Davis of the U. S. Naval Academy, 6-2, 6-4.

Hickman, teaming up with Felix Kelley, also got Texas off to a good start in defense of its doubles title with a 6-0, 6-2 triumph over Michigan's Alden Johnson and Roy Boucher as the first round of two-man competition boiled an original field of 16 teams to eight.

The Texas duo is top-seeded, due mainly to the fact Hickman combined with Walt Driver last year to win the title. Driver is not competing in the current meet.

Segura tomorrow collides with Stan Clarke of California Tech, who today eliminated Notre Dame's Jerry Evert, 6-1, 7-5. Nick Bubolich of Pepperdine college (Los Angeles), fifth-seeded, erased Jimmy Griffin of Notre Dame, 6-0, 6-1, and thus the third round doused the high hopes the Irish held of grabbing California's undefended team toga.

One of them made the proposition of a dollar on the largest fish. I hate to make $2 so easily, but it was their own proposition and I didn't want to be a piker.

I had an 18-pound test line on my muskie reel but it was an old line and, being in one of my saving moods, I decided to hoard up a little money by not shelling out $2 for a new one that morning.

Norb was casting a weedless nickel spoon with a touch of red on it. I was throwing a weedless silver minnow with two short strips of pork rind. Ray was in the other boat but he was using a large jointed wooden minnow.

A little runt of a muskie grabbed Norb's spoon and danced along the water. He was released and Norb brought in another fish, a northern about six pounds. Neither Ray nor I had a strike.

We fished along for another hour or two, when I laid the silver minnow in an opening among the sago pondweeds. The bay seemed to open up and I struck at the swirl, there was a mighty snorb and the muskie was fast. Norb saw it and started for the oars.

Before he touched them there was a swirl like the churning of a line. The muskie was gone and with him went spoon, leader and pork strip. Some of my heart went with him too for I tested that line with my hands and it snapped at a 10-pound pull.

When we climbed up on the dock, Norb collected $2 from Ray and me in spite of the loud claims I put up for having hit the largest fish. "Put him on the scales for us and we'll pay," they sneered.

That night when I went to bed and fought that muskie all over again before I could get to sleep, snobby old conscience said to me, "Go to sleep you cheap little piker. You not only lost the price of a new line but you lost a large muskie and don't tell me that you tested that line before you left home."

MARKET TAKES BULLISH SPURT

BY VICTOR EUBANK New York, June 27 (AP)—The stock market put on another bullish sprint today, one of the fastest of the year, as peace sentiment was further buoyed by the fall of Cherbourg and mounting political optimism at home touched off investment demand over a wide front.

The ticker tape was liveliest in the forenoon when numerous issues touched 7-year peaks and blocks of as much as 10,000 Willys-Overland shares were traded.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 55.6, equalling the highest level since October, 1937, reached last week. It was the second broadest market since April, 1943, 1,001 individual issues registering. Of these, 563 advanced, 215 receded and 223 were unchanged.

BOND TRENDS UPWARD New York, June 27 (AP)—The bond market continued its selectively higher trend today under leadership of high priced investment corporates and medium rated railroad securities. Numerous new issues for recent years were established, against a minority of small losers in various groups.

Among individual issues selling at new highs or equalling old peaks were American Telephone 3s at 121 1/8, Burlington 4 1/2s at 106 1/4, Commonwealth Edison 4 1/2s at 114, Erie 4s at 105 3/4, New Orleans Terminal 4s at 103 1/2 and the seldom traded Public Service Electric & Gas 7s at 22 1/2.

The majority of reorganization and medium priced rail bonds followed a more selective course with evidence of profit taking on each attempt to rise. St. Paul 3 1/2s of 1927 advanced to 62 1/2 at one time only to fall back to close at 61 1/4 for a net loss of 1 1/2 points. Several of the North Western bond issues, however, were high 3 1/2s and 4s, were up at one time but eventually surrendered the advantage. U. S. governments remained quiet but steady.

Brazilian and Peruvian securities attracted buyers in an otherwise narrow foreign list. Sales of $10,981,500 compared with $8,919,600 on Monday.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

A CHEAP LITTLE PIKER I'm one of those liberal cusses who will throw away $10 on nothing and try to make up for it by being very saving of nickels and dimes for the next two weeks.

When I get over one of my great spending sprees, the only relief I get is to look over the bills, item by item, and yell to the heaven's about the way the missus is driving me to the poorhouse. Just when I was halfway through proving it to her the other day, the phone rang.

Norb said he knew where the big muskies were working and we agreed to try out a certain bay on certain lake the next morning. We left home about 9 o'clock and soon Ray, Norb and I were searching a bay not over six miles from home.

One of them made the proposition of a dollar on the largest fish. I hate to make $2 so easily, but it was their own proposition and I didn't want to be a piker.

I had an 18-pound test line on my muskie reel but it was an old line and, being in one of my saving moods, I decided to hoard up a little money by not shelling out $2 for a new one that morning.

KILLED IN ACTION—Leonard J. Vian, Technician 4/c, Fifth Army, was killed in action in Italy, on May 16, the War Department has informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vian, of Trenary.

Nahma Nearing War Bond Quota

Nahma—The Nahma Township Committee in charge of conducting the 5th War Finance Drive reports that at the present time, $12,037.50 has been sold in E. Bonds, which is 72% of the E. Bond quota of $16,700.00.

While the response has been very gratifying, sales are slowing up somewhat and it is urged that those not yet contacted, or those wishing to make additional purchases, arrange to leave their bond order with some member of the committee rather than wait to be called on.

Everyone will be asked to participate in this drive, but it will put the drive "over the top" much sooner if the public will take the initiative rather than wait for a committee member's call.

Equalization Committee Starts Two-Day Meeting

The equalization committee of the Delta county board of supervisors today will start a two-day meeting in an effort to equalize property assessments between townships and cities on a true cash value basis. The committee is scheduled to report to the county board which will convene again Friday at 2 p. m.

Much depends upon the work of the equalization committee. The deadline in the county tax allocation committee on the allocation of county tax revenue between the schools and the county is expected to be lifted if the equalization provides sufficient revenue to meet county and school budgetary needs.

Should the equalization not provide sufficient tax revenue, representatives of the schools are on record with an assertion they will appeal to the state tax commission to step in and reassess property in the county.

The state tax commission has set the county equalized valuation at $18,000,000. The assessors, reporting to the county board at opening session Monday showed a total of $15,851,511 on their assessment rolls. This is an increase of about $30,000 over last year's figures.

Unofficially the equalization committee has set a figure of $17,000,000 as the figure necessary to bring in the needed tax revenue to meet county and school budgets.

Only two units in the county, Wells township and the city of Escanaba, show lower valuations this year than last.

Wells township's valuation went down a total of $204,030 since last year, while Escanaba city declined only $33,545.

Following are the equalized valuations established last year, and the valuations reported to the county board Monday by the townships and cities in the county:

Township or City	1943 Values	1944 Values
Baldwin township	$ 281,350	$ 314,875

News From Men In The Service

Pvt. Robert L. Nagy, Flat Rock, Mich., this week completed a four-week course in specialized training at the Military Police Training Center, Fort Benning, Ga., and returned to his home station at San Angelo, Texas.

Word has been received by Mrs. Florence Hogan, 327 North Twentieth Street, that her son, Corp. John Hogan of the U. S. Army, Ski Troop Division, has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant. Sergeant Hogan has recently been transferred from Camp Hale, Colo. to Camp Swift, Texas.

Lt. William Butler has arrived safely in England, his wife, who is now making her home in Escanaba, has been advised. He has been in the service for over two years and before leaving for foreign service was stationed at Camp Livingston, La. In a letter to Mrs. Butler, he writes that he has already had the pleasure of meeting his brother, Lt. Clayton Butler, who also is stationed in England.

Mrs. Nettie Olsen, Escanaba, Route One, has received word that her son, Sgt. Kenneth Olsen, has been promoted to the rank of Staff Sergeant. He is now on one of the recently taken islands in the South Pacific. In a letter to his mother he writes, "We really took those islands from the Japs," and he tells of having had the "thrill of killing a 12-foot python." "Everything is o. k.," the letter continues, "in spite of terrific heat."

Four Are Sickened By Spoiled Custard

Four Escanaba residents are known to have been sickened by spoiled custard in products sold by a local bakery, causing food poisoning which necessitated hospitalization for one of the four afflicted.

William Hendrickson, county health department sanitarian, yesterday said the attention of the department was directed to the illness by one of the persons who was stricken. Three persons are known to have become ill Sunday night and Monday after purchasing and eating custard-filled pastries from one bakery. A week ago another person had been hospitalized because of food poisoning after eating bakery custard.

An inspection of the bakery showed there was nothing wrong either with the ingredients or the preparation of the custard, Hendrickson said. The bakery is to discontinue use of custard for the summer, however.

Hendrickson explained that custards spoil quickly in warm weather unless they are kept in refrigeration. Purchasers should place foodstuffs containing custard in the refrigerator immediately, and keep them at a temperature of at least as low as 50 degrees.

Food poisoning from spoiled custard is not unusual at this season of the year. Food sanitation authorities say that bakers should "flash sterilize" custards by placing the food after preparation in the oven at 210 degrees for ten minutes. This, with refrigeration after, keeps the food in what is considered a safe condition.

Persons suffering from food poisoning are afflicted with vomiting, nausea and diarrhea.

Mrs. Dupont Dies At Quinnesec Home

Mrs. Clifford Dupont, 51, of Quinnesec, former resident of Kingsford, and a sister of William P. Kelly of this city, died Monday morning at 6 o'clock at her home, of a heart attack.

Mrs. Dupont was born in Escanaba on March 26, 1893. She had lived in Kingsford for 22 years and moved to Quinnesec a short time ago.

She was a member of the Auxiliary of Carpenter-Clash Legion post in Kingsford.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Mary, at home; three sons, William and Kelly of Milwaukee, and James at home; two brothers, William P. Kelly, Escanaba, and John Kelly, Milwaukee; and five sisters, Mrs. A. LaMarche, Chicago; Mrs. Earl Dimmel, Mrs. Michael Baker and Mrs. Vincent Sowell, Milwaukee; and Mrs. George Babcock, British Columbia.

Funeral services are to be held at St. Mary's church in Quinnesec.

Spies Visits City On Campaign Tour

James A. Spies, candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator, left here for Menominee yesterday after a brief campaign tour of Delta and Schoolcraft counties. He said he would return to this district next week.

Born and raised in Menominee, Mr. Spies attended local schools there and at Culver, Indiana. He is married and has two children, a daughter attending Menominee school and a son with the U. S. Marine Corps somewhere in the South Pacific.

Spies has been connected with the real estate business in Menominee for several years and is still active in that business under the name of Spies Company. At present he is a member of the Menominee Post War Planning Committee and a trustee of the public library. He is a former member in the Michigan House of Representatives (1941) where he became well known as an active and progressive member of that body.

Rev. Fr. Bourgeois officiating, and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery in Escanaba.
